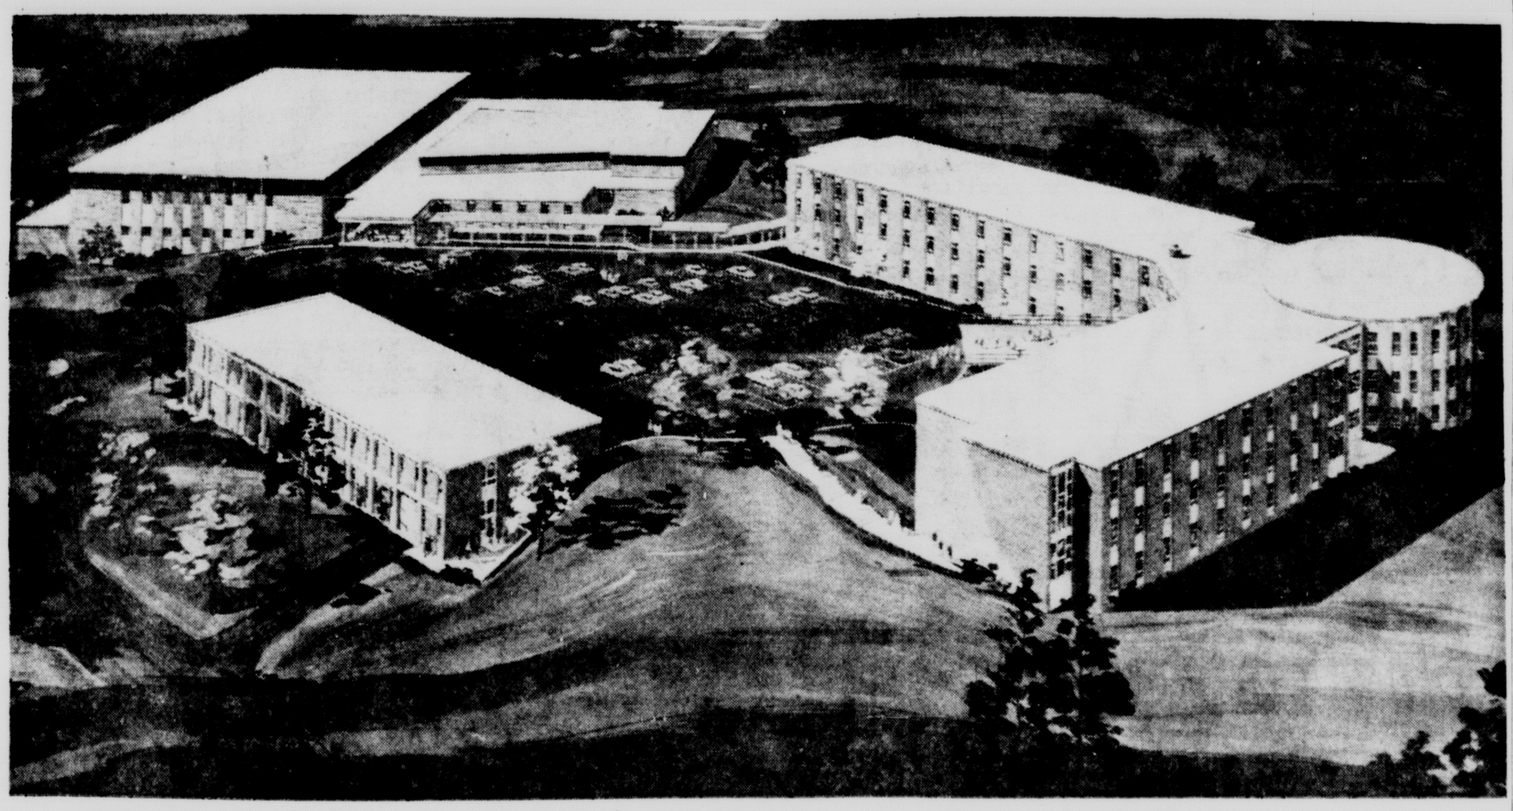
Architect's Drawing Shows Educational Complex

How High School Will Look On Completion



Preliminary grading at the site of the new East Liverpool High School building on the North Side is expected to begin shortly, officials of the Potters Construction Co., general contractors for the project, have announced.

This architect's drawing shows the arrangement of the high school complex to be built on Huston Hill off Maine Blvd. Cost of the high school and equipment is set at $2,943,155.

At the right are the two wings of the classroom section, centered on a circular structure which will include a cafeteria on the ground floor, administrative offices on the second floor and a library on the third floor. At the lower left is the industrial arts building.

At the upper left are the gymnasium, with the higher roof, and the adjacent auditorium, with the lower roof.

The site of the North Elementary School is to the far left. Robert Beatty, city architect, designed the high school and three centralized elementary schools included in the $5,558,000 program. The other schools will be located in the East End and LaCroft.

Groundbreaking for the buildings will be held Wednesday afternoon at the respective sites.

Salem Driver Critical After Car Hits Span

Auto Parts Strewn Along Highway In Damascus District

A 34-year-old Salem man was injured seriously early this morning when his convertible smashed into a concrete bridge abutment along Route 62 near Damascus, moving the bridge pillar and scattering parts of his car along the highway.

Emerson J. Nihart of S. Ellsworth Ave. was in "critical" condition today at Youngstown Southside Hospital with lacerations of the chest, elbow, leg, face and nose and other injuries.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said he was headed east in his 1964 convertible when it veered off the highway and slammed into the abutment about 2:05 a.m.

The car was demolished and the motor, transmission, fenders and other parts strewn along the roadway, officers said.

A car driven by Eric Gabrielson, 21, of Alliance came suddenly upon the wreckage and struck the transmission, damaging the undercarriage.

Mrs. Mary Bell Boyd, 73, of St. Clair Ave. Ext. escaped injury when her car and another collided on Route 644, about a half - mile east of Kensington Thursday afternoon.

Officers said she was headed east in a 1962 hardtop, owned by James Boyd, made a turn toward a private drive and collided with an oncoming 1966 auto driven by Clyde A. McDole, 29, of Malvern. There was minor damage to her car and moderate damage to his, the patrol said.

Richard L. Martin, 22, of Lisbon was cited for speeding aft-

UF Reaches 66% Of Goal In Campaign

A $10,000 contribution from the Globe Brick Co. has pushed the East Liverpool Area United Fund drive to two - thirds of the goal, James McGowan, campaign chairman, has announced.

Speaking at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday, McGowon said $83,217 has been pledged or collected in the drive for funds to aid 16 community service agencies. The goal is $125,000.

He said a total of $31,500 has been provided by the Crucible firm and $24,000 by the employes.

"Why United Fund?" he asked at the meeting at the Travelers Hotel.

"Because helping young people, the needy, the troubled, the aged can have one solution —one gift for all," he said.

"Otherwise we would have to go back to the old system of each group having its own drive, and we would be solicited from January through December."

He pointed out the addition of the Little Basketball League and three youth baseball organizations to UF eliminates four

100 Missing After School's Hit

18 School Children Die In Wales Coal-Heap Slide

ABERFAN, Wales (AP) — A giant coal slag-heap swept down a mountain into this Welsh mining village today, burying a school filled with children and also a row of houses.

The bodies of 22 persons — 18 children and four adults — were recovered.

Police estimated 100 school children and about 30 adults were missing. But some were believed to have escaped in the confusion.

Four hours after the avalanche buried the school for youngsters aged 7 to 11 and a row of nearby houses, a civil defense worker said:

"We don't know how many are missing, but there are many."

The British Press Association reported 125 children and four adults missing.

A thousand miners from nearby pits tore into the rubble with their bare hands to rescue the buried children.

The heap of coal slag, loosened by rain, moved down the mountainside "like a glacier," one civil defense worker said.

It first struck a kindergarten and badly damaged a secondary school next door in this village in Glamorgan.

Six houses in a row near the school were demolished. Among the missing is a family of four living in one of the houses.

The avalanche struck just after the children had entered class rooms after a play period.

The slag heap, loosened by recent rains, also slid into a row of six houses in this South Wales mining village. There were fears some persons might be buried in the houses.

A fire brigade spokesman said 200 children were believed in the school at the time.

A National Coal Board spokesman said he understood some had been brought out safely.

The slag heap — called a coal tip in Britain — is a small mountain of pit waste standing alongside the pit superstructure. It has long been a trademark of British coal fields, but the National Coal Board has been waging a campaign to level them.

57 Killed Or Wounded In South Viet

Terrorists Explode Mine

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists exploded a homemade mine in the teeming market place of a district capital today and killed or wounded 57 Vietnamese soldiers and civilians.

The attack came on an otherwise quiet day on the war front with only small patrol skirmishes reported as President Chung Hee Park of South Korea arrived in Viet Nam for a one-day visit to Korea's 45,000-man force here.

Park stopped off for seven hours and then continued on his way to Manila to attend the seven-nation summit conference on Viet Nam opening Monday.

South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, having quieted the storm within his own cabinet, took time off to fly to Da Nang to welcome the visiting Korean president.

In the air war over North Viet Nam, U.S. strike pilots flew 80 missions Thursday and an American spokesman said the forays cost two U.S. planes.

The North Vietnamese claimed five planes were shot down Thursday and a number of pilots were captured.

U.S. spokesmen ignored this claim, but said the pilots of the U.S. planes were missing. The planes were both Navy A4 Skyhawks from U.S. 7th Fleet carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The mine explosion occurred in Tra On, a district capital 75 miles southwest of Saigon. A government spokesman said about 1,000 persons were in the market when the homemade Claymore mine went off, spewing fragments of iron, glass and barbed wire.

Nine persons were killed. They included four Vietnamese servicemen and five civilians some of whom were children.

A spokesman said 48 were wounded seriously enough to be hospitalized. Fifteen were Vietnamese soldiers and 33 were civilians.

A Vietnamese spokesman said an undetermined number of others in the marketplace suffered minor wounds.

The seriously wounded were moved to hospitals in Can Tho 12 miles away by U.S. and Vietnamese river patrol boats. A spokesman said 35 U.S. servicemen donated blood in the Can Tho civilian hospital.

In air action over South Viet Nam, U.S. B52 bombers struck today at Viet Cong base camps and staging areas 18 miles west of Quang Ngai City near the South China Sea coast.

Slightly clearing weather over North Viet Nam allowed U.S. fliers to mount the 80 bombing missions, seven more than the previous day. Pilots claimed they damaged or destroyed 38 barges, six bridges and eight buildings.

The U.S. command, in a delayed report, said U.S. Marines Wednesday recaptured an 87-foot South Vietnamese trawler which had been seized by the Viet Cong.

The trawler developed engine trouble en route from Saigon to Da Nang and was beached by its South Vietnamese eight-man crew near Tam Ky. A spokesman said 40 Viet Cong boarded the beached trawler, kidnaped five of the crew and began unloading the vessel which carried a cargo of rice, flour, tires, furniture and cloth.

Space Rocket Launching Set For Tuesday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency today announced plans to launch an Atlas-Centaur space rocket next Tuesday to fully qualify it for lunar and planetary flights.

The launching is one of two space missions scheduled from Cape Kennedy next week. Earlier, the Communications Satellite Corp. announced plans to launch a satellite on Wednesday to extend commercial communications coverage via space to the Far East.

The Atlas Centaur launching is set for 5:30 a.m. EST Tuesday, the communications satellite for 6 p.m. Wednesday.

An attempt will be made to place the Centaur second stage in orbit and then restart its two hydrogen-powered engines. If successful, the rocket will hurl a dummy model of a Project Surveyor spacecraft toward an imaginary moon — a spot in space 236,000 miles away from the earth.

Woman, 81, Fifth Victim Of Strangler

Touches Off New Wave Of Fear In Cincinnati Area

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The strangulation slaying of an 81-year-old widow, presumably the fifth victim of a crazed killer, has touched off a new wave of fear in an already terrified Cincinnati.

The latest victim, Mrs. Rose Winstel, was raped and strangled Thursday night in a three-room apartment in which she lived alone.

The attack took place about two miles from the scene of three of four previous rape-strangulation murders, the first of which occurred last December.

"It's an exact copy of the others," said Detective Chief Jacob Schott.

"She looked exactly like the others," another veteran Detective said. "There's no doubt about it."

Police said the aspects of the five slayings were the same: Each victim was beaten severely on the head and face with a blunt object, raped and strangled with whatever was at hand.

The slayings have touched off fear among Cincinnati women. The fear has been fed with the unsolved stabbing murders of a young suburban couple and their daughter Sept. 25.

The city council has been conducting a hearing on crime in Cincinnati and in the wake of Thursday night's murder, called an emergency session today.

Police, who have been on unlimited overtime duty since Oct. 11 when Mrs. Alice Hochhausler, 51, was raped and strangled, are attempting to add more help to an already beefed-up force to find the killer.

Cincinnati had already acted to ban nighttime Halloween trick-or-treating in fear of the killer. The fear has spread into neighboring communities in Ohio and Kentucky and most of them also have outlawed "beggar's night."

Mrs. Winstel was strangled with a cord from a heating pad. She was nude from the waist down and had been dead from 15 to 24 hours, investigators said.

A 23-year-old man was taken into custody shortly after discovery of the slaying, but police said they had no evidence to link him with the crime. He was being held overnight, however.

A neighbor, Mrs. Claudia Roper, was believed the last person to see Mrs. Winstel alive. That was about 6 p.m. Tuesday when Mrs. Winstel put ou her garbage can.

The body was discovered by a nephew, Robert C. Winstel, who said he went to the home when he couldn't arouse his aunt by telephone.

Car Smeared By Paint

Over 500,000 Greet Johnson In Melbourne

MELBOURNE (AP) — From 500,000 to a million Australians gave President Johnson today a tumultuous Melbourne reception, marred by a paint-throwing incident that smeared his bubbletop limousine amid the boos and jeers of youths opposing the war in Viet Nam.

The closed car was smeared from windshield to rear bumper but the see-through top protected the President and Mrs. Johnson from the red and green paint. Two Secret Servicemen riding on the rear bumper and others in a following security car were smeared. Later, in the press of the crowd, a Secret Service man fell from the security car but was not seriously injured.

The paint was water-based and washed off readily and the car carried the Johnsons back to Melbourne airport for the return to Canberra. Thousands of Australians along the way cheered the Johnsons. Some shouted, "Come back" or sang, "For he's a jolly good fellow."

"I believe there is light at the end of what has been a long and lonely tunnel," Johnson told the Australians, referring to the Vietnamese war and his firm belief the Communists no longer can win.

The Johnsons appeared unconcerned by the paint throwing or the jeers from young Australians as they arrived at Government House from the airport. They smiled and waved to the crowd as if nothing had happened.

"In the perspective of two million people or so," said the First Lady, "It was just like a grain of sand."

One report said the paint — in two plastic balloons — was thrown by two youngsters about 14 years old. Another said the thrower was a young man whom police arrested.

The President flew to Melbourne from Canberra for four hours of meeting the people after taking a good-natured ribbing from an Australian politician and issuing a Viet Nam solidarity statement with Prime Minister Harold Holt.

Johnson and Holt said they agreed that North Viet Nam no longer can win a military victory but that America and its allies must "firmly maintain the present military effort until a satisfactory settlement could be negotiated."

"Fighting could only end when it was clear that the great issues at stake had been secured," the statement declared.

"There is a widening community of people who feel responsible for what is happening in Viet Nam," the President said in a television speech just before he left Canberra. For that reason, he continued, "I believe there is light at the end of what has been a long and lonely tunnel."

Despite Mrs. Johnson's "two million" remark, Melbourne police estimated the turnout for the President at half a million who jammed the sidewalks for many blocks, cheering and waving American flags under a rain of tickertape from the city's tall buildings.

The President as usual stopped his car repeatedly during the 11-mile drive to Government House and stood in the open doorway, kissing babies, waving vigorously, shaking hundreds of hands and accepting flowers and other tokens — including a football — from wellwishers.

On his way to Government House, the President stopped

11 Reported Killed, 3 Injured

Air Force, Army Feud Ignites Bombing In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Laotian air force planes bombed military installations around Vientiane for 30 minutes today in what appeared to be the culmination of a feud between the air force commander, Brig. Gen. Thao Ma, and the army high command in the capital.

At least 11 persons were reported killed and three injured.

Well informed sources said Gen. Thao sent his planes against his rivals in the capital after arresting Gen. Ouane Rathikoun, the royal army's commander in chief; Gen. Boun Oum, the inspector general of the army, and the king's brother, Gen. Sayavong, at air force headquarters in Savannakhet, in southern Laos.

The sources reported later, however, that Gen. Ouane, Prince Boun Oum, and Prince Sayavong, who commands the armored divisions, had escaped and were heading south for Pakse in a jeep.

T28 fighter-bombers supplied by the United States flew over Vientiane between 8 and 8:30 a.m. and dropped bombs on the army headquarters at Phone Khene, the city's northeastern suburb.

The Vientiane Airport also was bombed, but damage there was not immediately reported.

The Laotian high command cabinet met in emergency session, and acting Premier Leuam Insisienmay was reported in telephone contact with Brig. Gen. Thao, 32, commander of the air force whose headquarters are in Savannakhet, in southern Laos.

The Laotian government radio later in the morning announced the government was in control and appealed to the people to remain calm.

In a communique broadcast at 11 a.m., the radio said six T28s of the Laotian air force had bombed and machine gunned the Phone Khene and Chinaimo military camps, and Vientiane's Wattay Airport.

The communique requested all officials, including armed forces and police personnel, to report to their posts.

Reliable sources reported the air force had threatened to return and bomb Vientiane at 10 a.m. but the hour passed without this happening.

Hancock Devices Top Gaming List

Hancock County, the smallest subdivision geographically in West Virginia, has the largest number of gambling devices listed in Internal Revenue Service records.

So reported The Associated Press today in a review of licenses taxes on gambling this year in the state to date.

The IRS office at Parkersburg reported 224 gambling devices in Hancock.

Marshall and Brooke counties, also in the Northern Panhandle, had 208 and 172 machines, respectively.

Heading the list of counties for federal wagering stamps was Marion with 41, followed by Hancock with 32 and Ohio with 25.

The federal government has collected $395,750 in licenses taxes on gambling in West Virginia, a state where gambling is prohibited by law except at horse tracks.

IRS records at Parkersburg showed that $250 federal gambling stamps were purchased for 1,500 gaming devices in 39 counties and 250 firms and individuals purchased $50 federal wagering stamps.

Fraternal clubs, pool rooms, bowling alleys, bars and cafes dominated the list of gaming device stampholders in the northern counties.

In southern counties, the largest numbers were held by clubs and fraternal orders. Mercer County, for instance, had 18 gaming device stamps listed.

Six were at the Bluefield

Lieutenant Governor Makes Campaign Visit

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown stopped in East Liverpool today in a swing through Columbiana County as part of his bid for a new term in the Nov. 8 general election.

The Republican incumbent was accompanied by John R. Longsworth of Salem, GOP candidate for the State Senate in the 30th District, which includes Columbiana County.

Brown and Longsworth were greeted on their arrival by Mayor George Willshaw and Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger. They stopped at city GOP headquarters on E. 6th St. and then made a round of the downtown business area.

Fall Into Vat Brings Scalds

Middleton Woman 'Fair' At Hospital

EAST PALESTINE —A Middleton woman employe of a city firm was in "fair" condition today at Salem Central Clinic with scalds of the body received when she tumbled backward into a vat of hot water and caustic liquid this morning while at work.

Mrs. Herman Ward was rushed to the hospital by the firemen's emergency car after she fell into the 4-foot-deep cauldron at the M. & W. Manufacturing Co. plant on Lincoln Ave. about 6:45.

Officials of the firm said the vat, which has the liquid at 190 degrees to clean castings, normally has a lid on it.

Mrs. Ward apparently climbed up to the vat to get warm and put her hand in back of her to brace herself against the lid. However, the lid had been removed late yesterday, and she fell backward to be completely immersed in the liquid.

She was helped out by other women employes of the firm, which produces electrical conduits and castings.

"In the perspective of two million people or so," said the First Lady, "It was just like a grain of sand."

One report said the paint — in two plastic balloons — was thrown by two youngsters about 14 years old. Another said the thrower was a young man whom police arrested.

The President flew to Melbourne from Canberra for four hours of meeting the people after taking a good-natured ribbing from an Australian politician and issuing a Viet Nam solidarity statement with Prime Minister Harold Holt.

Johnson and Holt said they agreed that North Viet Nam no longer can win a military victory but that America and its allies must "firmly maintain the present military effort until a satisfactory settlement could be negotiated."

"Fighting could only end when it was clear that the great issues at stake had been secured," the statement declared.

"There is a widening community of people who feel responsible for what is happening in Viet Nam," the President said in a television speech just before he left Canberra. For that reason, he continued, "I believe there is light at the end of what has been a long and lonely tunnel."

Despite Mrs. Johnson's "two million" remark, Melbourne police estimated the turnout for the President at half a million who jammed the sidewalks for many blocks, cheering and waving American flags under a rain of tickertape from the city's tall buildings.

The President as usual stopped his car repeatedly during the 11-mile drive to Government House and stood in the open doorway, kissing babies, waving vigorously, shaking hundreds of hands and accepting flowers and other tokens — including a football — from wellwishers.

On his way to Government House, the President stopped

Air Force, Army Feud Ignites Bombing In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Laotian air force planes bombed military installations around Vientiane for 30 minutes today in what appeared to be the culmination of a feud between the air force commander, Brig. Gen. Thao Ma, and the army high command in the capital.

At least 11 persons were reported killed and three injured.

Well informed sources said Gen. Thao sent his planes against his rivals in the capital after arresting Gen. Ouane Rathikoun, the royal army's commander in chief; Gen. Boun Oum, the inspector general of the army, and the king's brother, Gen. Sayavong, at air force headquarters in Savannakhet, in southern Laos.

The sources reported later, however, that Gen. Ouane, Prince Boun Oum, and Prince Sayavong, who commands the armored divisions, had escaped and were heading south for Pakse in a jeep.

T28 fighter-bombers supplied by the United States flew over Vientiane between 8 and 8:30 a.m. and dropped bombs on the army headquarters at Phone Khene, the city's northeastern suburb.

The Vientiane Airport also was bombed, but damage there was not immediately reported.

The Laotian high command cabinet met in emergency session, and acting Premier Leuam Insisienmay was reported in telephone contact with Brig. Gen. Thao, 32, commander of the air force whose headquarters are in Savannakhet, in southern Laos.

The Laotian government radio later in the morning announced the government was in control and appealed to the people to remain calm.

In a communique broadcast at 11 a.m., the radio said six T28s of the Laotian air force had bombed and machine gunned the Phone Khene and Chinaimo military camps, and Vientiane's Wattay Airport.

The communique requested all officials, including armed forces and police personnel, to report to their posts.

Reliable sources reported the air force had threatened to return and bomb Vientiane at 10 a.m. but the hour passed without this happening.

Hancock Devices Top Gaming List

Hancock County, the smallest subdivision geographically in West Virginia, has the largest number of gambling devices listed in Internal Revenue Service records.

So reported The Associated Press today in a review of licenses taxes on gambling this year in the state to date.

The IRS office at Parkersburg reported 224 gambling devices in Hancock.

Marshall and Brooke counties, also in the Northern Panhandle, had 208 and 172 machines, respectively.

Heading the list of counties for federal wagering stamps was Marion with 41, followed by Hancock with 32 and Ohio with 25.

The federal government has collected $395,750 in licenses taxes on gambling in West Virginia, a state where gambling is prohibited by law except at horse tracks.

IRS records at Parkersburg showed that $250 federal gambling stamps were purchased for 1,500 gaming devices in 39 counties and 250 firms and individuals purchased $50 federal wagering stamps.

Fraternal clubs, pool rooms, bowling alleys, bars and cafes dominated the list of gaming device stampholders in the northern counties.

In southern counties, the largest numbers were held by clubs and fraternal orders. Mercer County, for instance, had 18 gaming device stamps listed.

Six were at the Bluefield

Middleton Woman 'Fair' At Hospital

EAST PALESTINE —A Middleton woman employe of a city firm was in "fair" condition today at Salem Central Clinic with scalds of the body received when she tumbled backward into a vat of hot water and caustic liquid this morning while at work.

Mrs. Herman Ward was rushed to the hospital by the firemen's emergency car after she fell into the 4-foot-deep cauldron at the M. & W. Manufacturing Co. plant on Lincoln Ave. about 6:45.

Officials of the firm said the vat, which has the liquid at 190 degrees to clean castings, normally has a lid on it.

Mrs. Ward apparently climbed up to the vat to get warm and put her hand in back of her to brace herself against the lid. However, the lid had been removed late yesterday, and she fell backward to be completely immersed in the liquid.

She was helped out by other women employes of the firm, which produces electrical conduits and castings.

Pottery Union Pushes Battle On Premiums

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters said today its Executive Board, comprised of the 12 top officers, has thrown its support to a fight against imported Japanese chinaware being offered as premiums to customers of Standard Oil Co. service stations and Kroger Co. supermarkets.

The use of the imported ware instead of American-made products "poses a direct threat to the U. S. pottery industry and the jobs of IBOP members," the union asserted.

E. L. Wheatley, international president of the union, said it is making "efforts to persuade the two firms to reverse their policies."

But if the plan does not succeed, the IBOP will launch a "Don't Buy Sohio" and "Don't Buy Kroger" campaign, he said.

Members and their families and sympathizers will be asked to refrain from patronizing the two companies, Wheatley said.

"We do not object to the practice of giving premiums," he declared. "We feel that in many instances this is excellent merchandising and in the past such practices have given much employment to our members. What we do object to is the practice of retailers offering foreign-made chinaware in return for American-made, union - made wages.

"We already have exported enough of our prosperity."

Ex-City Resident Continues Busy Nursing Career

A former city woman is continuing her nursing career in California, serving as director of nursing services at a hospital, keeping a home and watching over two teen-agers and a husband.

Mrs. Robert Pollock of Upland, Calif., is on the staff at the Casa Colina Rehabilitation Center, where she is in charge of nurses and aides and is instructor for nursing trainees from several nearby colleges.

The former Doris Byrne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Byrne now of Pomona, Calif., she received her training at City Hospital and went to Cleveland City Hospital, where she took care of pediatrics, contagious diseases and psychiatry wards.

While there she contracted tuberculosis and underwent an operation for seven half-ribs and a lung and was bedridden for two years.

But she resumed nursing, and is now in a challenging day-to-day routine which begins at 4:30 a.m. and often allows her only four hours sleep.

She and her husband have a son in college and daughter in high school.

'Anonymous' Bumper Signs Bring New Warning On Law

Robert Conkle of Grandview Ave., Pleasant Heights, who distributed auto bumper stickers urging a vote against the 3½-mill school levy, said today he is seeking to contact Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis at Lisbon to discuss a complaint that the little placards violate state law because they are not signed.

Conkle said he was unaware of the law against "unsigned political communications" when he placed an order for 500 of the stickers with the local salesman for an out-of-state printing concern.

He said he plans to affix his name and address to the remaining stock of the stickers in order to compy with the state law. But first, he said, he wishes to confer with the prosecutor to find if Bettis concurs that the belated application of the name and address will satisfy the law.

Reports of the unsigned stickers stirred an investigation by the Election Board and brought a new reminder of the provisions of the law requiring persons responsible for political literature to affix their names and addresses.

The law covers all political literature — newspaper, radio and television advertising as well as placards, posters, cards and sample ballots, the board pointed out.

The law provides a penalty of not less than $300 nor more than $2,000 for a violation, according to Miss Rebecca Resnick, director of elections.

The single exception to the law is that a candidate is not required to place his address on literature promoting his own candidacy.

Conkle said he acted as a private citizen in ordering the bumper stickers. He said he has given them to other opponents of the levy for distribution. Conkle added that he intends to order a new supply.

Conkle is employed as an operator at the city water department pumping and filtration plant in Klondyke. He also operates an auto repair shop in Rural Ln. and a laundromat at Wellsville.

Conkle identified himself as the distributor of the bumper stickers in a telephone call early this morning to the County Election Board. He said he was referred to Bettis, as the prosecutor's office is the Election Board's legal adviser.

"I have attended all the school board metings and seen what a raw deal everybody is getting," Conkle commented today. "I have asked questions, but I have never received an answer. They don't need my money when they can give a $4,000 raise to the school superintendent and then turn around and say that first and second graders have to walk to school instead of riding buses."

Conkle also said he was incensed with the Board of Education because it has refused to discuss the discharge of Frank Chan as basketball coach, claiming the subject is "closed."

Chester Mishap Brings Hearing

An auto driven by Mrs. Anna Marie McGurren, 35, of Newell struck a parked car belonging to the Rev. C. Donald Vogel of Chester on Carolina Ave. between 3rd and 4th Sts. about 9 this morning, Audley Campbell, Chester police chief, reports.

Mrs. McGurren, who was shaken up but otherwise uninjured, said she fell asleep upon returning from her job at a resturant, Campbell said.

Her 1958 sedan and the unoccupied 1963 vehicle received combined damages estimated at $350.

The motorist is scheduled to appear Tuesday at 7 p. m. before Mayor Burton G. Ward on a charge of failing to have her vehicle under control.

Court Suspends Youth's License For 90-Mile Pace

Richard William Call, 19, of 1148 Riverside Ave. was fined $25 and costs and given a 30-day suspension of his driver's license when he pleaded guilty today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge of speeding 90 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd.

Queried by the judge, Call identified himself as a student. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol Sunday at 2 p.m. on the four-lane stretch. The judge told Call a 90-mile pace "is entirely too fast."

He went on to state that many people think that their own success has been a result of their own intelligence or talent, but actually, they could not have done well were it not for the aid of God.

McGowan said there are men and women who are not satisfied to make just a gift of money to the United Fund, but give themselves in service to the drive. He said the task of solicitation is difficult in some divisions, referring to the Mercantile B division in which 611 separate solicitations.

"The motivation for aiding the drive is varied in individuals," he said, "but as a Christian, I hearken to the words of the Bible which says to the followers of Jesus, as ye do unto the least of these, so do ye do unto Christ."

"The United Fund helps people who are not as blessed by God as we are, and by helping them, we are making some small return to God for what he has done for us."

McGowan said the major contributions from industry are now in, and the "tough part" of the campaign will be to complete the drive on the basis of smaller donations.

"Can we make the goal? With the help of you and the other people in the community, I feel we will accomplish our aim," he concluded. He was introduced by James Walker, president.

'Anonymous' Bumper Signs Bring New Warning On Law

Robert Conkle of Grandview Ave., Pleasant Heights, who distributed auto bumper stickers urging a vote against the 3½-mill school levy, said today he is seeking to contact Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis at Lisbon to discuss a complaint that the little placards violate state law because they are not signed.

Conkle said he was unaware of the law against "unsigned political communications" when he placed an order for 500 of the stickers with the local salesman for an out-of-state printing concern.

He said he plans to affix his name and address to the remaining stock of the stickers in order to compy with the state law. But first, he said, he wishes to confer with the prosecutor to find if Bettis concurs that the belated application of the name and address will satisfy the law.

Reports of the unsigned stickers stirred an investigation by the Election Board and brought a new reminder of the provisions of the law requiring persons responsible for political literature to affix their names and addresses.

The law covers all political literature — newspaper, radio and television advertising as well as placards, posters, cards and sample ballots, the board pointed out.

The law provides a penalty of not less than $300 nor more than $2,000 for a violation, according to Miss Rebecca Resnick, director of elections.

The single exception to the law is that a candidate is not required to place his address on literature promoting his own candidacy.

Conkle said he acted as a private citizen in ordering the bumper stickers. He said he has given them to other opponents of the levy for distribution. Conkle added that he intends to order a new supply.

Conkle is employed as an operator at the city water department pumping and filtration plant in Klondyke. He also operates an auto repair shop in Rural Ln. and a laundromat at Wellsville.

Conkle identified himself as the distributor of the bumper stickers in a telephone call early this morning to the County Election Board. He said he was referred to Bettis, as the prosecutor's office is the Election Board's legal adviser.

"I have attended all the school board metings and seen what a raw deal everybody is getting," Conkle commented today. "I have asked questions, but I have never received an answer. They don't need my money when they can give a $4,000 raise to the school superintendent and then turn around and say that first and second graders have to walk to school instead of riding buses."

Conkle also said he was incensed with the Board of Education because it has refused to discuss the discharge of Frank Chan as basketball coach, claiming the subject is "closed."

Chester Mishap Brings Hearing

An auto driven by Mrs. Anna Marie McGurren, 35, of Newell struck a parked car belonging to the Rev. C. Donald Vogel of Chester on Carolina Ave. between 3rd and 4th Sts. about 9 this morning, Audley Campbell, Chester police chief, reports.

Mrs. McGurren, who was shaken up but otherwise uninjured, said she fell asleep upon returning from her job at a resturant, Campbell said.

Her 1958 sedan and the unoccupied 1963 vehicle received combined damages estimated at $350.

The motorist is scheduled to appear Tuesday at 7 p. m. before Mayor Burton G. Ward on a charge of failing to have her vehicle under control.

Drugs Discussed For Midland Club

James Johnson of Beaver Falls, a representative of Smith, Kline and French, discussed "Hidden Sickness" when the Midland Rotary Club met Thursday at the Riviera Club.

Twenty - six heard Johnson discuss the abuse and misuse of amphetamines, barbituates and other drugs. He cautioned against overdoses. A question-and-answer period followed.

Ernie Dostalik, president, was in charge. S. E. Miller was program chairman. C. Lloyd Deffenbaugh led group singing, accompanied by Miss Ellen Viakley, a senior at Lincoln High School.

Dr. James Swinker will be program chairman when the club meets next Thursday at 6:15 p.m. at the Riviera.

Court Suspends Youth's License For 90-Mile Pace

Richard William Call, 19, of 1148 Riverside Ave. was fined $25 and costs and given a 30-day suspension of his driver's license when he pleaded guilty today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge of speeding 90 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd.

Queried by the judge, Call identified himself as a student. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol Sunday at 2 p.m. on the four-lane stretch. The judge told Call a 90-mile pace "is entirely too fast."

Hearings are due later for three more drivers cited by the patrol this morning between 7:10 and 7:55 for speeding on the same stretch.

The drivers and their hearing dates are: Elio P. Lerussi of LaCroft, to appear next Wednesdy on a charge of driving 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile stretch; Donald E. Moore of Wintersville, slated to appear Monday on a charge of driving 75 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone, and Arthur C. Darrah of Weirton, due Wednesdy on a charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone.

Mrs. Helen Welch Elected

Wellsville Woman Named County 'Action' President

Mrs. Helen Welch of Wellsville was elected president of the Columbiana County Community Action Committee during the annual membership meeting Thursday night at the Lisbon Village Hall.

Mrs. Welch, Wellsville High School librarian, succeeds Fred Simmen of near Calcutta.

Thirty attended the meeting of the committee, which administers programs of the Economic Opportunity Act, termed the "war on poverty."

The Rev. William Ring of the St. Jacob's United Church of Christ, near Lisbon, was elected vice president, succeeding Mrs. Welch.

Miss Ann Overturf of Lisbon, secretary, and Mrs. Genesta Vokavich of Lisbon, treasurer, were re-elected.

Prior to the trustees' meeting, four trustees were chosen by the membership.

New trustees are John Smith of Winona, Mrs. Florence Early of East Liverpool and Miss Viola Harris of Wellsville. Mrs. Theda Thornton of West Township was re-elected.

Simmen appointed Rev. Ring, whose term expired, to the trustee post held by the late Robert Bycroft.

Mrs. Welch reported on the past year's activities of the CAC, including implementing "Head Start" programs at East Liverpool and Wellsville, Neighborhood Youth Corps projects at Wellsville, Lisbon and Beaver Creek State Park and other work.

Rev. Ring, chairman of the proposal committee, said applications now are being processed for a countywide "Head Start" program and a countywide Neighborhood Youth Corps project.

He also listed a West Township Ruritan Club - sponsored recreation site improvement, an East Liverpool parks improvement, a Lisbon Youth Corps plan, Beaver Creek State Park project, Salineville Ruritan Club-sponsored project, a proposed Youth Center in East End and a county youth rehabilitation project.

It was announced that Miss Catherine Franzetta, director of the CAC, and Mrs. Welch are scheduled to attend a special instruction conference of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Chicago shortly.

Rev. Ring gave the invocation and a moment of silence was observed in memory of Mr. Bycroft and Frank Wilson, county commissioner who died recently.

A resolution of appreciation to Simmen for his leadership and direction was approved.

State Will Probe Maximum Speed For County Road

LISBON — County commissioners are asking the director of highways "to determine and designate a reasonable and safe prima facie speed limit on County Road 401."

They adopted the resolution Thursday after receiving a petition signed by some 50 persons who live along the Knox Township road.

County Road 401 begins in Homeworth at the junction of County Road 400 and runs north five miles to U. S. Route 62 at the east edge of Alliance.

"The attitude of the community has been good toward the United Fund, for we have been able to achieve our goal in recent years," he declared.

He went on to state that many people think that their own success has been a result of their own intelligence or talent, but actually, they could not have done well were it not for the aid of God.

McGowan said there are men and women who are not satisfied to make just a gift of money to the United Fund, but give themselves in service to the drive. He said the task of solicitation is difficult in some divisions, referring to the Mercantile B division in which 611 separate solicitations.

"The motivation for aiding the drive is varied in individuals," he said, "but as a Christian, I hearken to the words of the Bible which says to the followers of Jesus, as ye do unto the least of these, so do ye do unto Christ."

"The United Fund helps people who are not as blessed by God as we are, and by helping them, we are making some small return to God for what he has done for us."

McGowan said the major contributions from industry are now in, and the "tough part" of the campaign will be to complete the drive on the basis of smaller donations.

"Can we make the goal? With the help of you and the other people in the community, I feel we will accomplish our aim," he concluded. He was introduced by James Walker, president.

A Helping Hand For The Schools

Those seriously concerned about public education in East Liverpool should be heartened by plans of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools to operate on a continuing basis.

The present committee and those in past years have served a useful purpose in helping to get voter approval of vitally - needed school bonds and levies.

Their task has been to raise money for promotion, to educate and persuade the electorate and to assist school officials and members of the Board of Education in the campaigning.

But there is an even greater role such a committee can play in helping to improve education.

Not only in East Liverpool but in most communities there always will be to some degree uncertainty relative to the effectiveness of a particular school system.

Administrators and school boards generally make every effort to insure that the schools and their staffs are the best available.

But as in business, as in industry, as in churches and as in clubs there are errors of judgment, misunderstandings, prejudices and improper evaluations, just as there are successful programs, progress, modernization and accomplishment.

A citizens' committee for schools should not be merely a money-raiser and levy-backer. At the same time, a properly-functioning citizens' committee should not become a pressure group trying to "run" the Board of Education or the superintendent of schools. Nor should it turn into a collection of busy-bodies attempting to ferret out the trivial problems any educational system encounters and making an unjustified major issue out of them.

We feel the Citizens Committee for Better Schools can serve as a working aid to education, helping the board and the public to better judge the schools and what they are attempting to do and paving the way to real improvement for the benefit of our young people.

Harry F. Byrd

The lingering illness of Harry F. Byrd and his death this week have caused newspapers from coast to coast to take a last look at their files on this unusual public figure.

Here was a man whose political trademark was U.S. Treasury, watchdogging, yet he had no success at it. He tried in vain to force the federal government to balance its budget.

He stood for high principles in his personal life and in the conduct of public affairs, yet in his home state of Virginia he ran a ruthlessly bossed political empire. He was a great governor of Virginia and a famous U.S. senator from Virginia, but something else distinguished him from other public officials of his era.

He was the kind of man people trusted. He had a magic touch in human relations. To his contemporaries he was the prototype of what a Southern gentleman is supposed to be but often isn't.

Harry Byrd always was

Another Bow To The Scientists

Those of us who were there for ground-breaking ceremonies can't forget the thrill—and the questions that went with it—when the first full-scale commercial atomic power station began taking shape at nearby Shippingport some 10 years ago.

The questions were those of a layman—"What's actually taking place?" and "What does the future hold?"

The questions have been answered in an emphatic and satisfactory manner.

As Ben De Forest wrote the other day in an Associated Press dispatch from Pittsburgh: "The men who build nuclear reactors for generating electricity are grinning from ear to ear these days. No wonder. Business is booming."

These facts are offered to substantiate the statement:

Last year, electric utilities awarded contracts or revealed plans for about 10 atomic plants.

Plans announced so far this year for nuclear plants already have outstripped the 1965 figures.

It is estimated that 40 per cent of the new generating capacity committed in the United States in 1965 and 1966 will be atomic.

Predictions for the future growth of atomic power are even more glowing.

As we commented earlier, while sitting at Shippingport during the ceremonies when then President Dwight D. Eisenhower waved the magic wand by means of television that started the bulldozers moving the earth, we were anything but certain what the eventual results would be.

But time has proven that those with the scientific mind were certain. Again, we take our hats off to them.

Lottery Time Again

By William T. Peacock

WASHINGTON

As government at all levels takes on more burdens — gets bigger and bigger If that's the way you prefer to view it — the constant problem is how to finance it.

Higher income taxes? Sales taxes? A lottery?

Basically, the political problem is how to get the money as painlessly as possible from those who surrender it.

The philosophy behind sales taxes is that a few pennies more on a small purchase don't really hurt, at least not as much as having to kick through with $50 or more additional at income tax paying time.

And the allure of the lottery is the notion that it would raise a lot of revenue completely painlessly.

SO TWO STATES — New York and Nevada — are going to have votes this coming election day, Nov. 8, on legalizing lotteries.

Already, New Hampshire has a state lottery. Also it has neither a sales nor an income tax.

But as a revenue raiser, the New Hampshire state lottery, a sweepstakes based on horse races, has been something of a disappointment compared with the hopes the state had for it. The state's annual net is in the area of $2 million a year.

One of New Hampshire's problems has been a restricted market. There are those federal laws about using the mails for a lottery which interfere with both advertising and sales through the mails.

New York is a major market whatever you are selling. Backers of a lottery in that state have estimated the state's take as high as $400 million a year.

Specifically, what New York voters will pass on is a proposed constitutional amendment that would open the way for a lottery.

The 1967 legislature would take it from there, if the lottery idea is approved at the polls. The form of the lottery would be up to the legislature.

NEVADA HAS been so well publicized as a center of legal gambling, home of the wheels, the slot machines, the blackjack games and the dice, that it may be surprising that a lottery is a form of gambling now outlawed there. But that's the way it is.

Actually, the question of a national lottery has been technically before Congress for a long time.

Rep. Paul A. Fino, a Republican from New York's Bronx area, introduced a bill for one soon after he came to Congress in 1953.

Its reintroduction is an annual ritual that Fino has gone through in each Congress since then.

As a revenue - raising measure, the bill routinely goes to the House Ways and Means Committee which just as routinely has filed and forgotten it.

Fino's estimate of the potential revenue is about $10 billion a year.

Above All, Think Small!

By Truman Twill

This is another excerpt from the diary of Muttsie, all-breed champion of the Twillery:

Dear Diary: I am getting the hang of survival in a world of big dogs with big ideas.

I am developing a sense of proportion.

In the past, I was a big dog at heart with a little dog's physique.

I was not internally aware of my limitations, because no one ever had reminded me of them.

I was as good as the next dog, I thought. And because it had been my good fortune never to run up against next dogs that did not see it this way, I was in a fool's paradise.

It was as if I was a pint-sized kid growing up in a neighborhood of oversized kids whose mommies had told them their allowances would be suspended if they laid a finger on him.

Then the golden-fleeced stranger from New Hampshire arrived.

He did not know the rules.

He took advantage of my size.

Several times I was rescued by Divine Providence. Other times, Divine Providence overlooked me and that yellow-haired monster mauled me as if I was a rawhide knot.

That is how I got the hang of survival.

I no longer act as if I thought I was as good as the next dog.

I'm not.

I developed a sense of proportion.

I learned to sleep under chairs, out of the monster's reach. I learned to grin when he cornered me and to signal good will with little flirts of my tell-tale tail.

I realized he could not get under a bed and that the carpet there is as soft as anywhere else.

I learned to think small, bark small, even to walk small.

In a big dog's world I am nothing; I learned that.

This is "getting the hang of survival."

Sweden, Holland, Switzerland, the Irish Free State and Portugal, according to what I learned in Canine College did it the same way. They learned to think small and to carry small sticks.

They knew they couldn't lick anybody so they abstained from conduct unbecoming fourth-rate powers. That is what I am doing—abstaining from anything that might get me beaten up.

I have lost none of my pride but by all that's digestible I haven't lost any of my toes either. I am a fourth-rate power with all my moving parts still intact.

This 'n That

The average span of life of some of our better-known animals figures this way: For the rabbit it is five years; the sheep 12 years; the cat 13 years; the dog 15 years; the goat 15 years; the cow 25 years; the pig 25 years; the horse 30 years; the camel 40 years; the lion 40 years, the elephant 100 years; the whale 100 years; the crocodile 300 years, and the tortoise 350 years.

"Uncle Sam" originated as a nickname for the United States in 1812 when Samuel Wilson, called "Uncle Sam" by his friends, was an inspector appointed by the government to receive large supplies for the army in Troy, New York. The "U. S." stamp on the boxes and crates, designating our country, was humorously interpreted as "Uncle Sam." This stuck and became popular all over the nation.

Hoffa Seen Beating Jail Term

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON Jimmy Hoffa, nursing some bleeding ulcers which nearly killed him by hemorrhaging several months ago, gleefully is counting his Supreme Court judges before their opinions are hatched.

Victor Riesel

Virtually unapproachable even by his closest aides during the hours of the high court hearing of his appeal of an eight-year prison sentence for jury tampering, he now is convinced the big bench will decide in his favor.

So are the top lawyers in the headless U.S. Department of Justice. There is bitterness behind that big stone facade. The lawyers had been split over who would handle the government's public fight during the Oct. 13 hearing of arguments over Hoffa's appeal.

Many of the old timers, including some who had handled the original case against Hoffa in the Chattagnooga, Tenn., Federal Court House, believed that Assistant U.S. Attorney General Fred M. Vinson Jr. was much too inexperienced to duel with Hoffa's newest legal talent, Joseph A. Fanelli. But Mr. Vinson won — and lost, in the opinion of government men who have been battling the Teamsters' chief for almost a decade.

SO CONFIDENT are the men around Hoffa that they now are saying he'll easily "beat the other rap."

This "rap" involves federal charges that Hoffa and six others had conspired to milk the union's central states $400 million pension fund of $25 million through fradulent loan applications.

Hoffa and the six, the government had said during the trial which resulted in the Teamster leader's conviction, had siphoned $1.7 million into their own pockets.

The seven men were convicted in 1964 with Hoffa getting five years. This was upheld by a 2-to-1 vote of the U.S. Seventh circuit court of appeals on Oct. 4. It will be moved to the Supreme Court by the defendants shortly.

THIS IS THE MONEY one for Jim Hoffa. There's more riding on the Chicago conviction than mere time in prison. The "little fellow," or the "kid" as the boys love to call him just to show that they're "in," could stay on as president even in a jail cell if he were imprisoned on the jury fixing conviction. There is no law that says he would have to resign.

Take it as gospel, he has no plans to quit his $2,000-a-week job if the Supreme Court does by chance refuse to heed his appeal on the Chattanooga case heard the other day.

However, the Landrum-Griffin Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 would bar him from continuing as president if he went to prison for mail and wire fraud and conspiracy.

HOFFA DOESN'T appear to be worried by all this. He believes that the minority opinion in the Seventh Circuit was so strongly written by Judge Luther Swygert of Chicago that the dissenter's views will be adopted by the Supreme Court.

That's the way they talk these days in the marble headquarters some proudly hail as the "Taj Mahal."

They're tough pagmatists — and they feel they've been running in luck. Hoffa's toughest opponent on the Teamsters' General Executive Board, Philadelphia's John Backhus, seventh vice president, died the other weekend. Without him, there's little backbone to the opposition shadow cabinet.

Furthermore, the wife of another critic, West Coast Teamsters' leader Einar Mohn, is not very well. Thus he has little spirit now for foraging into the East to do battle.

AS FOR THE THIRD force, the lanky "egghead," tenth vice president, St. Louis' Harold Gibbons, who might have taken on the battle — he now stands alone.

So it's a bumptious Hoffa now who makes plans he had little heart for a few days ago — namely, the invasion of the communications field through a new communications division organizing the "factories in the field" in competition with the AFL-CIO's new Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee, as well as transportation and space bases.

Jimmy Hoffa is a long, way in mood and motion, from a moment late last month when he told one of his intimates "I damn well might be in prison by November."

Responsibility

By David Lawrence

It's Something Parties Must Meet

Fifty-four per cent of adults in the United States do not know the name of their own congressman.

A Gallup poll taken a month ago shows the percentage of the uninformed now is identical with what was recorded in 1942.

This means citizens are more likely to vote for or against a party in power, rather than an individual. They will do the same thing in the November elections.

While some able men in both parties who deserve re-election will be defeated, basically the principle is sound. It fixes responsibility on the party with a majority in both houses of Congress that has failed to adopt measures the people want.

Again and again, the two-thirds majority the Democrats have had in the Senate and the House of Representatives for the last two years has been broken down by a coalition of members from both parties who perceived the will of the people as different from the policies recommended by the administration.

The right of a property owner to sell or rent to whomever he pleases was ignored by the administration's proposal for "open housing." A two-thirds vote in the Senate was required to rescue the measure from a filibuster, but the party in power couldn't muster it.

OTHER BILLS have been dropped for the current session because a majority could not be mobilized. This has happened before in American history and usually foreshadowed a heavy vote against the party in power.

A spirit of protest is manifested even by some newspapers which have supported the Democratic party. The New York Times, for instance, which came out in favor of the election of Lyndon Johnson in 1964, had an editorial last Tuesday taking issue with some of the most important pronouncements by the administration on economic conditions in the country. It read in part:

"Inflation is no longer a future threat. It is here now. . . .

"The President and his advisers may be convinced that the economy is in good shape and will get better. But a likelier prospect is that the expansion will become even more distorted and unstable. . . .

"Continued inflation, if labor presses for wage rises to compensate for increases in the cost of living, could accompany rising unemployment, especially among those who lack skills. . . .

"The notion of employing tax policy to keep the economy from getting out of hand is sound. But timing is vital. This newspaper recommended just such a policy early this year, when inflationary forces first began making themselves felt. At that time the administration professed to see no real danger. Only now, only belatedly, tax policy is being employed."

IT WILL BE recalled that after the stock-market crash in 1929, the Hoover administration had trouble with its timing, too.

Republicans went into the 1930 convulsion without realizing that a major crisis had demanded emergency action. When corrective proposals were finally presented, it was too late to turn the tide, and unemployment figures rose to unprecedented heights.

The electorate today is dealing with the effects of a series of inflationary factors which have been allowed to grow in the last two years. It's not so difficult to produce a boom, but it's hard to check excesses the boom generates.

The problem is complicated for an administration afraid to propose a tax increase just before a congressional election. Yet if measures of this kind had been enacted early this year they might have brought stability and started a recovery which would have diminished the protest vote.

Instead, dissatisfaction is being even more vehemently expressed. A housewives' revolt against high prices, which started in Denver, has spread to Nebraska, Florida, Oregon, California, Texas and other parts of the country. Boycotts of supermarkets are being urged. Stores say they can't roll back prices, because their own costs are rising.

All this will be reflected in the results of the coming election. The voters will vent their wrath on a party label. But perhaps the politicians will involuntarily acquire a new respect for the importance of party responsibility and the need for the chief executive to join more closely with the legislative branch in the making of national policies that really express the will of the people.

A Helping Hand For The Schools

Those seriously concerned about public education in East Liverpool should be heartened by plans of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools to operate on a continuing basis.

The present committee and those in past years have served a useful purpose in helping to get voter approval of vitally - needed school bonds and levies.

Their task has been to raise money for promotion, to educate and persuade the electorate and to assist school officials and members of the Board of Education in the campaigning.

But there is an even greater role such a committee can play in helping to improve education.

Not only in East Liverpool but in most communities there always will be to some degree uncertainty relative to the effectiveness of a particular school system.

Administrators and school boards generally make every effort to insure that the schools and their staffs are the best available.

But as in business, as in industry, as in churches and as in clubs there are errors of judgment, misunderstandings, prejudices and improper evaluations, just as there are successful programs, progress, modernization and accomplishment.

A citizens' committee for schools should not be merely a money-raiser and levy-backer. At the same time, a properly-functioning citizens' committee should not become a pressure group trying to "run" the Board of Education or the superintendent of schools. Nor should it turn into a collection of busy-bodies attempting to ferret out the trivial problems any educational system encounters and making an unjustified major issue out of them.

We feel the Citizens Committee for Better Schools can serve as a working aid to education, helping the board and the public to better judge the schools and what they are attempting to do and paving the way to real improvement for the benefit of our young people.

Harry F. Byrd

The lingering illness of Harry F. Byrd and his death this week have caused newspapers from coast to coast to take a last look at their files on this unusual public figure.

Here was a man whose political trademark was U.S. Treasury, watchdogging, yet he had no success at it. He tried in vain to force the federal government to balance its budget.

He stood for high principles in his personal life and in the conduct of public affairs, yet in his home state of Virginia he ran a ruthlessly bossed political empire. He was a great governor of Virginia and a famous U.S. senator from Virginia, but something else distinguished him from other public officials of his era.

He was the kind of man people trusted. He had a magic touch in human relations. To his contemporaries he was the prototype of what a Southern gentleman is supposed to be but often isn't.

Harry Byrd always was

Another Bow To The Scientists

Those of us who were there for ground-breaking ceremonies can't forget the thrill—and the questions that went with it—when the first full-scale commercial atomic power station began taking shape at nearby Shippingport some 10 years ago.

The questions were those of a layman—"What's actually taking place?" and "What does the future hold?"

The questions have been answered in an emphatic and satisfactory manner.

As Ben De Forest wrote the other day in an Associated Press dispatch from Pittsburgh: "The men who build nuclear reactors for generating electricity are grinning from ear to ear these days. No wonder. Business is booming."

These facts are offered to substantiate the statement:

Last year, electric utilities awarded contracts or revealed plans for about 10 atomic plants.

Plans announced so far this year for nuclear plants already have outstripped the 1965 figures.

It is estimated that 40 per cent of the new generating capacity committed in the United States in 1965 and 1966 will be atomic.

Predictions for the future growth of atomic power are even more glowing.

As we commented earlier, while sitting at Shippingport during the ceremonies when then President Dwight D. Eisenhower waved the magic wand by means of television that started the bulldozers moving the earth, we were anything but certain what the eventual results would be.

But time has proven that those with the scientific mind were certain. Again, we take our hats off to them.

Lottery Time Again

By William T. Peacock

WASHINGTON

As government at all levels takes on more burdens — gets bigger and bigger if that's the way you prefer to view it — the constant problem is how to finance it.

Higher income taxes? Sales taxes? A lottery?

Basically, the political problem is how to get the money as painlessly as possible from those who surrender it.

The philosophy behind sales taxes is that a few pennies more on a small purchase don't really hurt, at least not as much as having to kick through with $50 or more additional at income tax paying time.

And the allure of the lottery is the notion that it would raise a lot of revenue completely painlessly.

SO TWO STATES — New York and Nevada — are going to have votes this coming election day, Nov. 8, on legalizing lotteries.

Already, New Hampshire has a state lottery. Also it has neither a sales nor an income tax.

But as a revenue raiser, the New Hampshire state lottery, a sweepstakes based on horse races, has been something of a disappointment compared with the hopes the state had for it. The state's annual net is in the area of $2 million a year.

One of New Hampshire's problems has been a restricted market. There are those federal laws about using the mails for a lottery which interfere with both advertising and sales through the mails.

New York is a major market whatever you are selling. Backers of a lottery in that state have estimated the state's take as high as $400 million a year.

Specifically, what New York voters will pass on is a proposed constitutional amendment that would open the way for a lottery.

The 1967 legislature would take it from there, if the lottery idea is approved at the polls. The form of the lottery would be up to the legislature.

NEVADA HAS been so well publicized as a center of legal gambling, home of the wheels, the slot machines, the blackjack games and the dice, that it may be surprising that a lottery is a form of gambling now outlawed there. But that's the way it is.

Actually, the question of a national lottery has been technically before Congress for a long time.

Rep. Paul A. Fino, a Republican from New York's Bronx area, introduced a bill for one soon after he came to Congress in 1953.

Its reintroduction is an annual ritual that Fino has gone through in each Congress since then.

As a revenue - raising measure, the bill routinely goes to the House Ways and Means Committee which just as routinely has filed and forgotten it.

Fino's estimate of the potential revenue is about $10 billion a year.

Above All, Think Small!

By Truman Twill

This is another excerpt from the diary of Muttsie, all-breed champion of the Twillery:

Dear Diary: I am getting the hang of survival in a world of big dogs with big ideas.

I am developing a sense of proportion.

In the past, I was a big dog at heart with a little dog's physique.

I was not internally aware of my limitations, because no one ever had reminded me of them.

I was as good as the next dog, I thought. And because it had been my good fortune never to run up against next dogs that did not see it this way, I was in a fool's paradise.

It was as if I was a pint-sized kid growing up in a neighborhood of oversized kids whose mommies had told them their allowances would be suspended if they laid a finger on him.

Then the golden-fleeced stranger from New Hampshire arrived.

He did not know the rules.

He took advantage of my size.

Several times I was rescued by Divine Providence. Other times, Divine Providence overlooked me and that yellow-haired monster mauled me as if I was a rawhide knot.

That is how I got the hang of survival.

I no longer act as if I thought I was as good as the next dog.

I'm not.

I developed a sense of proportion.

I learned to sleep under chairs, out of the monster's reach. I learned to grin when he cornered me and to signal good will with little flirts of my tell-tale tail.

I realized he could not get under a bed and that the carpet there is as soft as anywhere else.

I learned to think small, bark small, even to walk small.

In a big dog's world I am nothing; I learned that.

This is "getting the hang of survival."

Sweden, Holland, Switzerland, the Irish Free State and Portugal, according to what I learned in Canine College did it the same way. They learned to think small and to carry small sticks.

They knew they couldn't lick anybody so they abstained from conduct unbecoming fourth-rate powers. That is what I am doing—abstaining from anything that might get me beaten up.

I have lost none of my pride but by all that's digestible I haven't lost any of my toes either. I am a fourth-rate power with all my moving parts still intact.

This 'n That

The average span of life of some of our better-known animals figures this way: For the rabbit it is five years; the sheep 12 years; the cat 13 years; the dog 15 years; the goat 15 years; the cow 25 years; the pig 25 years; the horse 30 years; the camel 40 years; the lion 40 years; the elephant 100 years; the whale 100 years; the crocodile 300 years, and the tortoise 350 years.

"Uncle Sam" originated as a nickname for the United States in 1812 when Samuel Wilson, called "Uncle Sam" by his friends, was an inspector appointed by the government to receive large supplies for the army in Troy, New York. The "U. S." stamp on the boxes and crates, designating our country, was humorously interpreted as "Uncle Sam." This stuck and became popular all over the nation.

Hoffa Seen Beating Jail Term

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON Jimmy Hoffa, nursing some bleeding ulcers which nearly killed him by hemorrhaging several months ago, gleefully is counting his Supreme Court judges before their opinions are hatched.

Victor Riesel

Virtually unapproachable even by his closest aides during the hours of the high court hearing of his appeal of an eight-year prison sentence for jury tampering, he now is convinced the big bench will decide in his favor.

So are the top lawyers in the headless U.S. Department of Justice. There is bitterness behind that big stone facade. The lawyers had been split over who would handle the government's public fight during the Oct. 13 hearing of arguments over Hoffa's appeal.

Many of the old timers, including some who had handled the original case against Hoffa in the Chattagnooga, Tenn., Federal Court House, believed that Assistant U.S. Attorney General Fred M. Vinson Jr. was much too inexperienced to duel with Hoffa's newest legal talent, Joseph A. Fanelli. But Mr. Vinson won — and lost, in the opinion of government men who have been battling the Teamsters' chief for almost a decade.

SO CONFIDENT are the men around Hoffa that they now are saying he'll easily "beat the other rap."

This "rap" involves federal charges that Hoffa and six others had conspired to milk the union's central states $400 million pension fund of $25 million through fradulent loan applications.

Hoffa and the six, the government had said during the trial which resulted in the Teamster leader's conviction, had siphoned $1.7 million into their own pockets.

The seven men were convicted in 1964 with Hoffa getting five years. This was upheld by a 2-to-1 vote of the U.S. Seventh circuit court of appeals on Oct. 4. It will be moved to the Supreme Court by the defendants shortly.

THIS IS THE MONEY one for Jim Hoffa. There's more riding on the Chicago conviction than mere time in prison. The "little fellow," or the "kid" as the boys love to call him just to show that they're "in," could stay on as president even in a jail cell if he were imprisoned on the jury fixing conviction. There is no law that says he would have to resign.

Take it as gospel, he has no plans to quit his $2,000-a-week job if the Supreme Court does by chance refuse to heed his appeal on the Chattanooga case heard the other day.

However, the Landrum-Griffin Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 would bar him from continuing as president if he went to prison for mail and wire fraud and conspiracy.

HOFFA DOESN'T appear to be worried by all this. He believes that the minority opinion in the Seventh Circuit was so strongly written by Judge Luther Swygert of Chicago that the dissenter's views will be adopted by the Supreme Court.

That's the way they talk these days in the marble headquarters some proudly hail as the "Taj Mahal."

They're tough pagmatists — and they feel they've been running in luck. Hoffa's toughest opponent on the Teamsters' General Executive Board, Philadelphia's John Backhus, seventh vice president, died the other weekend. Without him, there's little backbone to the opposition shadow cabinet.

Furthermore, the wife of another critic, West Coast Teamsters' leader Einar Mohn, is not very well. Thus he has little spirit now for foraging into the East to do battle.

AS FOR THE THIRD force, the lanky "egghead," tenth vice president, St. Louis' Harold Gibbons, who might have taken on the battle — he now stands alone.

So it's a bumptious Hoffa now who makes plans he had little heart for a few days ago—namely, the invasion of the communications field through a new communications division organizing the "factories in the field" in competition with the AFL-CIO's new Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee, as well as transportation and space bases.

Jimmy Hoffa is a long, way in mood and motion, from a moment late last month when he told one of his intimates "I damn well might be in prison by November."

Responsibility

By David Lawrence

It's Something Parties Must Meet

Fifty-four per cent of adults in the United States do not know the name of their own congressman.

A Gallup poll taken a month ago shows the percentage of the uninformed now is identical with what was recorded in 1942.

This means citizens are more likely to vote for or against a party in power, rather than an individual. They will do the same thing in the November elections.

While some able men in both parties who deserve re-election will be defeated, basically the principle is sound. It fixes responsibility on the party with a majority in both houses of Congress that has failed to adopt measures the people want.

SUMMITVILLE — Halloween "trick or treat" night will be held Monday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 9, Council agreed Thursday night.

In other business, the legislators voted to purchase 200 tons of slag for future use on the streets. Purchase of storm sewer pipe for installation along 3rd St. also was approved. Council discussed purchase of a new mower and requests for installation of more street lights, but deferred a decision on both questions.

for 40 minutes to visit with Dame Mabel Brookes, who befriended him during his wartime stay in Australia, and her 90-year-old husband, Sir Norman Brookes, former world's tennis champion.

The Johnsons had just left the Brookes home when the paint throwing occurred.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said two youngsters about 14 threw two plastic balloons filled with paint at the car. A newsman riding with a truckload of photographers ahead of the limousine said the two containers were thrown by a young man who dashed at the car, hurled his missiles, ran in front of the car and either tripped or threw himself to the pavement. The newsman said police hauled him away.

The windshield of Johnson's car was hit squarely by the green paint, and the car was smeared from one end to the other. Two Secret Service men on the back bumper were bathed in it, and a number of other security men in an open car behind were hit.

Moyers said the President was "quite jocular" about the incident and told him: "I guess they just couldn't stand the size of that turnout."

One other incident occurred as the motorcade passed near the campus of Melbourne University. Students waving anti-Viet Nam placards broke through police barricades in an attempt to disrupt the caravan.

The cars speeded up and the President ran a two-block gauntlet of booing, jeering youths who shook their fists at him and threw objects at his car. Newsmen two cars behind could not determine the nature of the objects.

Despite the paint-throwing incident and the antiwar demonstration, the President was in a jovial mood at the Government House reception, where 1,500 people waited an hour for his arrival. Three women fainted during the reception, one while Johnson was speaking.

The crowd greeted the Johnsons with great cheers and applause and lustily sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Shapp Proposes State Should Give More Local Aid

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Milton Shapp, plagued by transportation troubles, said today the state should assume a far more active, imaginative and creative role in providing aid to municipalities and other regions.

"By tradition, the state has failed to meet the challenges involved in what should be an active and continuing partnership," he said, adding that since states have been reluctant to act boldly the communities have been forced to turn to the federal government.

Shapp, the Democratic candidate for governor, made the remarks in a prepared speech before the Pennsylvania Planning Commission. Secretary of Commerce John Tabor also was scheduled to appear.

The Democratic nominee came to Harrisburg from Luzerne County where he stopped at DuPont, Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton Thursday night.

Shapp was greatly delayed in his tour of the anthracite regions but was greeted by enthusiastic crowds, some of whom waited three hours for him.

Shapp told a fund-raising rally that the independent voters were "swinging in line behind the Democratic ticket." He said they amounted to about 42 to 45 per cent of the electorate.

Shafer Seeking Votes In Luzerne And Lackawanna

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)— Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer went searching for votes today in Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties, buoyed by the performance of Gov. William Scranton's wife, Mary, Thursday night in Philadelphia.

The Shafer itinerary calls for a day of street tours in both coal region counties, to be concluded with an appearance by Scranton and his wife tonight at a Lackawanna County GOP dinner.

Shafer flew into Wilkes-Barre following a day-long tour of Philadelphia.

But it was Mary Scranton who provided the spark of this week's campaign, when she puffed on a cigar at a GOP rally in the northern section of the city before the flight here.

Mrs. Scranton, a vigorous campaigner for her husband four years ago, startled the 500 GOP supporters by lighting a cigar, puffing on it three of four times, and declaring::

"If you do better in this election than you've done in the past, I will come back to finish this cigar no matter how green I get."

She also sang the praises for Shafer, and ripped into his Democratic opponent Milton J. Shapp.

Police said the two were cited by Patrolmen Paul Blevins and Dwight Garvey.

Police Patrols Are Doubled In Oakland Rioting

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Doubled police patrols cracked down today on firebomb-tossing vandals who have kept Oakland's racial disturbances alive since Tuesday.

Three firebombs were thrown during the night, one crashing through a cafeteria window at Havenscourt elementary school. None ignited.

Police arrested 12 persons, 10 of them juveniles, in scattered incidents.

The force of 225 policemen bore down on the offenders after Dist. Atty. Frank Coakley of Alameda County declared Thursday, "There will be no wholesale amnesty for criminal violators as there was in San Francisco." After a Negro riot in San Francisco last month, there was a general amnesty for lesser offenses.

Coakley charged that "professional agitators" had promoted a school boycott which, he said, caused the trouble.

The statement immediately sparked disagreement among city officials.

W. Va. Inmate Flees Work Detail, Nabbed

WHEELING (AP) — A prisoner from the State Penitentiary at Moundsville jumped from a work detail truck in a residential section of Wheeling Thursday afternoon, but his freedom lasted just about an hour.

John W. Barry, 41, a prison trusty, eluded prison guards and wasn't found until a service station attendant telephoned police that a man had locked himself in the station's bathroom.

Police knocked open the bathroom door and found Berry, who police said had been drinking heavily during his hour's escape. Prison guards returned him to Moundsville.

U.S. cotton exports averaged 5.2 million bales a year during 1955-64, accounting for more than one-third of U.S. production during that period. The United States accounted for more than half the world's cotton trade in the mid-1930s but less than 30 per cent of it in the 1960s.

'Trick Or Treat' Night Slated In Summitville

SUMMITVILLE — Halloween "trick or treat" night will be held Monday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 9, Council agreed Thursday night.

In other business, the legislators voted to purchase 200 tons of slag for future use on the streets. Purchase of storm sewer pipe for installation along 3rd St. also was approved. Council discussed purchase of a new mower and requests for installation of more street lights, but deferred a decision on both questions.

Bills totaling $292 were ordered paid. Mayor Ernest Phillips presided. Absent were Mrs. Marjorie Roberts, clerk, and Councilmen William Swinger and Dean Dowdell. The next meeting will be Nov. 17.

Johnson

for 40 minutes to visit with Dame Mabel Brookes, who befriended him during his wartime stay in Australia, and her 90-year-old husband, Sir Norman Brookes, former world's tennis champion.

The Johnsons had just left the Brookes home when the paint throwing occurred.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said two youngsters about 14 threw two plastic balloons filled with paint at the car. A newsman riding with a truckload of photographers ahead of the limousine said the two containers were thrown by a young man who dashed at the car, hurled his missiles, ran in front of the car and either tripped or threw himself to the pavement. The newsman said police hauled him away.

The windshield of Johnson's car was hit squarely by the green paint, and the car was smeared from one end to the other. Two Secret Service men on the back bumper were bathed in it, and a number of other security men in an open car behind were hit.

Moyers said the President was "quite jocular" about the incident and told him: "I guess they just couldn't stand the size of that turnout."

One other incident occurred as the motorcade passed near the campus of Melbourne University. Students waving anti-Viet Nam placards broke through police barricades in an attempt to disrupt the caravan.

The cars speeded up and the President ran a two-block gauntlet of booing, jeering youths who shook their fists at him and threw objects at his car. Newsmen two cars behind could not determine the nature of the objects.

Despite the paint-throwing incident and the antiwar demonstration, the President was in a jovial mood at the Government House reception, where 1,500 people waited an hour for his arrival. Three women fainted during the reception, one while Johnson was speaking.

The crowd greeted the Johnsons with great cheers and applause and lustily sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The national library, the Library of Congress, traces its origin to Thomas Jefferson's personal collection of 6,487 books. In 1815 Congress appropriated $23,950 and stored the books on the third floor of Blodget's Hotel near the Capitol.

Shapp Proposes State Should Give More Local Aid

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Milton Shapp, plagued by transportation troubles, said today the state should assume a far more active, imaginative and creative role in providing aid to municipalities and other regions.

"By tradition, the state has failed to meet the challenges involved in what should be an active and continuing partnership," he said, adding that since states have been reluctant to act boldly the communities have been forced to turn to the federal government.

Shapp, the Democratic candidate for governor, made the remarks in a prepared speech before the Pennsylvania Planning Commission. Secretary of Commerce John Tabor also was scheduled to appear.

The Democratic nominee came to Harrisburg from Luzerne County where he stopped at DuPont, Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton Thursday night.

Shapp was greatly delayed in his tour of the anthracite regions but was greeted by enthusiastic crowds, some of whom waited three hours for him.

Shapp told a fund-raising rally that the independent voters were "swinging in line behind the Democratic ticket." He said they amounted to about 42 to 45 per cent of the electorate.

Shafer Seeking Votes In Luzerne And Lackawanna

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)— Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer went searching for votes today in Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties, buoyed by the performance of Gov. William Scranton's wife, Mary, Thursday night in Philadelphia.

The Shafer itinerary calls for a day of street tours in both coal region counties, to be concluded with an appearance by Scranton and his wife tonight at a Lackawanna County GOP dinner.

Shafer flew into Wilkes-Barre following a day-long tour of Philadelphia.

But it was Mary Scranton who provided the spark of this week's campaign, when she puffed on a cigar at a GOP rally in the northern section of the city before the flight here.

Mrs. Scranton, a vigorous campaigner for her husband four years ago, startled the 500 GOP supporters by lighting a cigar, puffing on it three of four times, and declaring::

"If you do better in this election than you've done in the past, I will come back to finish this cigar no matter how green I get."

She also sang the praises for Shafer, and ripped into his Democratic opponent Milton J. Shapp.

Police said the two were cited by Patrolmen Paul Blevins and Dwight Garvey.

'Farmer Of Year' Award Goes To Baker Brothers

LISBON — Oland and Leland Baker, twin brothers who reside on Darner Rd., three miles east of here, received Columbiana County's "Farmer of the Year" award Thursday night on the eve of their 45th birthday.

Presentation of the plaque, sponsored by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. was a highlight of the annual dinner meeting of the Columbiana County Soil and Water Conservation District at East Fairfield Methodist Church. The churchwomen served 151.

The Baker families and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Baker, operate the 430 - acre Baker Farm in Elkrun Township. Leland specializes in poultry and eggs and Oland runs the orchards.

Since there was just one plaque, Dawson Irey of Guilford Lake, chairman of the SWCD board of supervisors, presented to each twin a framed color photograph of an Ohio conservation scene.

The same picture was presented to Floyd Lower of Lisbon, retired county extension agent who was active in getting the conservation district established here in 1942.

Lower was guest speaker. He gave an illustrated talk on a 21-day trip to Europe last year with a group of Ohio farmers. The tour was under the People-to-People Program.

Lower said he was most impressed by the neatness and cleanliness of the cities and farms and the people, both west and east of the Iron Curtain.

The tourists saw a 75,000 - acre collective farm in the Soviet Union.

"It employed more people than live in Lisbon," he said. The family farms or plots make up only three per cent of the Soviet Union's farmland but produce one-third of the crops, he added.

Oland Baker, Walter Coie of Elkrun Township and Harold Thompson of Hanoverton R.D. 1, Wayne Township, were elected trustees for three - year terms.

Coie, an incumbent, is a dairy farmer. The Thompson family produces potatoes and strawberries and had the grand champion 4-H steer this year at the County Fair.

Paul Zehentbauer, Hanover Township, is the fifth member of the board. Irey said the supervisors will elect officers Tuesday at the office here.

The Rev. Paul Sells of the host church gave the invocation. Special music was furnished by "Cousins 4" — vocalists Gloria Baker, Marilyn Baker, Diane Baker and Karen Woodburn. Mrs. Raymond Baker was accompanist.

Herman Reuter, work unit conservationist in the district office here, gave the farm planner's report.

Standard Slag Co. of Youngstown, Production Credit Assn. and the Federal Land Bank furnished favors for the members and guests.

Lieutenant Governor Visits At Palestine

EAST PALESTINE—Ohio Lt. Gov. John Brown visited Republican headquarters this morning for a gathering sponsored by the Men's Republican Club.

Mayor Robert Harding welcomed the state executive, who spoke briefly at a coffee hour held by the Women's Republican Club. Accompanied by several county GOP candidates, he left later for other county visits.

County Man Jailed After Police Hunt

In jail at Beaver today was 28-year-old Norman M. Rader of Columbiana, who was apprehended by Pennsylvania police early this morning on a police radio alert from East Palestine where he allegedly drove away from a service station without paying for gas.

Rader had been sought in Pennsylvania for a year in connection with hit-skip mishap at New Galilee and was taken before a justice of the peace this morning and jailed.

East Palestine officers were summoned at 10:30 p. m. to the service station of Paul Davis at E. Martin and Taggart Sts. by Davis, who said a man had obtained $6 worth of gasoline and driven away without paying.

Davis said the driver "reached across the seat as though to get a gun," but Davis said he did not actually see any weapon.

The East Palestine officers alerted Darlington Township police and Pennsylvania state police, and about two hours later Rader was apprehended in front of the Darlington Diner on Old Route 51.

He had been sought on a warrant from New Galilee where police said his car struck a utility pole and he left the scene a year ago. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and reckless operation.

The Pennsylvania officers early today took him before Darlington Justice of the Peace Richard McCrea, and he pleaded guilty to the reckless operation charge. The hit-skip charge was withdrawn on condition he pay for the damage to the pole.

Palestine officials said Davis plans to file a petty larceny charge against Rader.

Man Seeking Probation In Cable Theft

LISBON — John Hirst, 41, Canfield requested probation Thursday after a Common Pleas jury convicted him on a charge of grand larceny.

He waived the right to ask for a new trial and Judge Raymond S. Buzzard ordered a presentence investigation and report.

Hirst and his uncle, Cyril Lees, 59, of Lisbon, were indicted jointly in connection with the theft of copper cable from the Mullins Mfg. Co. of Salem.

Lees pleaded guilty Tuesday, requested probation and testified for the state Wednesday.

Hirst testified yesterday he accompanied his uncle to Salem last June 13 and helped him carry the wire from a lot next to the Mullins plant to his (Hirst's) car. He said he did not know who owned the wire, did not ask and helped because his uncle asked him to. "He was more or less like a father to me," Hirst said.

The jury determined the value of the copper taken at $184.40 — 461 pounds at 40 cents per pound.

The Great Lakes are not navigable at all seasons of the year. Ice on the lakes stops transportation for several months in winter.

Jury Convicts Youth On Charge Of Assault

EAST PALESTINE — A jury in County Judge Herbert Arfman's court returned a "guilty" verdict today in the case of Floyd Shamp of Lisbon R.D. 1, charged with assault and battery on Jack Shields of Bloomfield, East Liverpool, in an incident outside Jack and Red's Tavern at Rock Camp on Aug. 31, 1965.

Judge Arfman fined Shamp $200 and costs and sentenced him to 90 days in jail, but granted a stay of execution of the sentence until Dec. 1 because Shamp was injured recently in an accident while at work in a mine.

Shamp was among other youths charged in connection with the incident. The trial began Thursday.

At County Unit's Dinner

'Farmer Of Year' Award Goes To Baker Brothers

LISBON — Oland and Leland Baker, twin brothers who reside on Darner Rd., three miles east of here, received Columbiana County's "Farmer of the Year" award Thursday night on the eve of their 45th birthday.

Presentation of the plaque, sponsored by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. was a highlight of the annual dinner meeting of the Columbiana County Soil and Water Conservation District at East Fairfield Methodist Church. The churchwomen served 151.

The Baker families and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Baker, operate the 430 - acre Baker Farm in Elkrun Township. Leland specializes in poultry and eggs and Oland runs the orchards.

Since there was just one plaque, Dawson Irey of Guilford Lake, chairman of the SWCD board of supervisors, presented to each twin a framed color photograph of an Ohio conservation scene.

The same picture was presented to Floyd Lower of Lisbon, retired county extension agent who was active in getting the conservation district established here in 1942.

Lower was guest speaker. He gave an illustrated talk on a 21-day trip to Europe last year with a group of Ohio farmers. The tour was under the People-to-People Program.

Lower said he was most impressed by the neatness and cleanliness of the cities and farms and the people, both west and east of the Iron Curtain.

The tourists saw a 75,000 - acre collective farm in the Soviet Union.

"It employed more people than live in Lisbon," he said. The family farms or plots make up only three per cent of the Soviet Union's farmland but produce one-third of the crops, he added.

Oland Baker, Walter Coie of Elkrun Township and Harold Thompson of Hanoverton R.D. 1, Wayne Township, were elected trustees for three - year terms.

Coie, an incumbent, is a dairy farmer. The Thompson family produces potatoes and strawberries and had the grand champion 4-H steer this year at the County Fair.

Paul Zehentbauer, Hanover Township, is the fifth member of the board. Irey said the supervisors will elect officers Tuesday at the office here.

The Rev. Paul Sells of the host church gave the invocation. Special music was furnished by "Cousins 4" — vocalists Gloria Baker, Marilyn Baker, Diane Baker and Karen Woodburn. Mrs. Raymond Baker was accompanist.

Herman Reuter, work unit conservationist in the district office here, gave the farm planner's report.

Standard Slag Co. of Youngstown, Production Credit Assn. and the Federal Land Bank furnished favors for the members and guests.

County Man Jailed After Police Hunt

In jail at Beaver today was 28-year-old Norman M. Rader of Columbiana, who was apprehended by Pennsylvania police early this morning on a police radio alert from East Palestine where he allegedly drove away from a service station without paying for gas.

Rader had been sought in Pennsylvania for a year in connection with hit-skip mishap at New Galilee and was taken before a justice of the peace this morning and jailed.

East Palestine officers were summoned at 10:30 p. m. to the service station of Paul Davis at E. Martin and Taggart Sts. by Davis, who said a man had obtained $6 worth of gasoline and driven away without paying.

Davis said the driver "reached across the seat as though to get a gun," but Davis said he did not actually see any weapon.

The East Palestine officers alerted Darlington Township police and Pennsylvania state police, and about two hours later Rader was apprehended in front of the Darlington Diner on Old Route 51.

He had been sought on a warrant from New Galilee where police said his car struck a utility pole and he left the scene a year ago. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and reckless operation.

The Pennsylvania officers early today took him before Darlington Justice of the Peace Richard McCrea, and he pleaded guilty to the reckless operation charge. The hit-skip charge was withdrawn on condition he pay for the damage to the pole.

Palestine officials said Davis plans to file a petty larceny charge against Rader.

Mrs. Charles P. Wilson (Helen Sigel) of Gladwyne, Pa., set an amateur golf record with a 296 score in the 1965 Women's Open at Atlantic City, N. J.

Man Seeking Probation In Cable Theft

LISBON — John Hirst, 41, Canfield requested probation Thursday after a Common Pleas jury convicted him on a charge of grand larceny.

He waived the right to ask for a new trial and Judge Raymond S. Buzzard ordered a presentence investigation and report.

Hirst and his uncle, Cyrill Lees, 59, of Lisbon, were indicted jointly in connection with the theft of copper cable from the Mullins Mfg. Co. of Salem.

Lees pleaded guilty Tuesday, requested probation and testified for the state Wednesday.

Hirst testified yesterday he accompanied his uncle to Salem last June 13 and helped him carry the wire from a lot next to the Mullins plant to his (Hirst's) car. He said he did not know who owned the wire, did not ask and helped because his uncle asked him to. "He was more or less like a father to me," Hirst said.

The jury determined the value of the copper taken at $184.40 — 461 pounds at 40 cents per pound.

The Great Lakes are not navigable at all seasons of the year. Ice on the lakes stops transportation for several months in winter.

Jury Convicts Youth On Charge Of Assault

EAST PALESTINE — A jury in County Judge Herbert Arfman's court returned a "guilty" verdict today in the case of Floyd Shamp of Lisbon R.D. 1, charged with assault and battery on Jack Shields of Bloomfield, East Liverpool, in an incident outside Jack and Red's Tavern at Rock Camp on Aug. 31, 1965.

Judge Arfman fined Shamp $200 and costs and sentenced him to 90 days in jail, but granted a stay of execution of the sentence until Dec. 1 because Shamp was injured recently in an accident while at work in a mine.

Shamp was among other youths charged in connection with the incident. The trial began Thursday.

Living Costs Keep Soaring; Clothes Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living is still going up — but this time it is not food that's responsible.

The Labor Department said Thursday that its consumer price index rose three-tenths of 1 per cent during September, thanks primarily to higher clothing prices.

The index hit a record 114.1 per cent. That means it cost $11.41 in September for the same goods and services which cost $10 about eight years ago.

Costs during September were 3.5 per cent higher than a year ago and officials said the trend is expected to continue the rest of the year.

The price of food for home use declined three-tenths of 1 per cent but restaurant meals were up slightly. Fresh fruits and vegetables dropped 7.5 per cent from the previous month but dairy products, flour, bakery goods, eggs and most beef and pork increased in price.

Clothes cost 1.4 per cent more, twice the usual September rise. Women's coats, dresses and skirts led the advance.

Housing, due mostly to higher mortgage interest rates, and medical costs also were up during September.

HAIR REMOVAL WITH WAX

Q. Is it safe to have lip hair removed by use of wax? Is it better than shaving? The beauty operator contends that waxing is quite harmless.

A. Generally speaking, the method is safe but some women's skin will not tolerate hair removal in this way. In such cases the irritating effects of actually ripping the hair off by the roots may last considerably longer than the usual few hours. The advantage of wax removal over shaving is that no stubble remains. The wax treatment must be repeated every three or four weeks (depending on the individual's rate of hair growth).

MILK LEG

Q. What is the cause of milk leg?

A. Milk leg, so called because it most often occurs after the baby arrives, is a painful swelling of the leg caused by plugging and inflammation of a deep vein. The condition can occur in men or women of any age following leg injury or as a result of prolonged stays in bed. Whether to use drugs or resort to surgery in treatment of milk leg requires careful weighing of all circumstances. The decision can be made only by a physician.

Living Costs Keep Soaring; Clothes Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living is still going up — but this time it is not food that's responsible.

The Labor Department said Thursday that its consumer price index rose three-tenths of 1 per cent during September, thanks primarily to higher clothing prices.

The index hit a record 114.1 per cent. That means it cost $11.41 in September for the same goods and services which cost $10 about eight years ago.

Costs during September were 3.5 per cent higher than a year ago and officials said the trend is expected to continue the rest of the year.

The price of food for home use declined three-tenths of 1 per cent but restaurant meals were up slightly. Fresh fruits and vegetables dropped 7.5 per cent from the previous month but dairy products, flour, bakery goods, eggs and most beef and pork increased in price.

Clothes cost 1.4 per cent more, twice the usual September rise. Women's coats, dresses and skirts led the advance.

Housing, due mostly to higher mortgage interest rates, and medical costs also were up during September.

Solemn Rites Are Held For 12 Firemen

NEW YORK (AP) — Firemen from across the nation and Canada gather today at a solemn funeral procession in memory of the 12 men killed in Monday's Madison Square fire.

Some 5,000 more firefighters and 1,000 policemen are to line the avenue as the cortege moves south to St. Patrick's Cathedral and St. Thomas Episcopal Church for funeral ceremonies.

HAIR REMOVAL WITH WAX

Q. Is it safe to have lip hair removed by use of wax? Is it better than shaving? The beauty operator contends that waxing is quite harmless.

A. Generally speaking, the method is safe but some women's skin will not tolerate hair removal in this way. In such cases the irritating effects of actually ripping the hair off by the roots may last considerably longer than the usual few hours. The advantage of wax removal over shaving is that no stubble remains. The wax treatment must be repeated every three or four weeks (depending on the individual's rate of hair growth).

MILK LEG

Q. What is the cause of milk leg?

A. Milk leg, so called because it most often occurs after the baby arrives, is a painful swelling of the leg caused by plugging and inflammation of a deep vain. The condition can occur in men or women of any age following leg injury or as a result of prolonged stays in bed. Whether to use drugs or resort to surgery in treatment of milk leg requires careful weighing of all circumstances. The decision can be made only by a physician.

In Wake Of Housewives Boycott

Johnson Aide Demands Study Of Trading Stamps

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A high-priority study of the costs of food sales promotion, including games of chance as well as trading stamps, is being demanded by President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs, Esther Peterson.

She disclosed her call for an investigation Thursday in Denver, where she came to look at a week-long boycott of some chain supermarkets by housewives demanding lower prices.

The request was made in a letter to Paul Rand Dixon, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. It included excerpts from letters received by Mrs. Peterson, referring to games as "gambling with our food dollars."

Two of five chains originally placed on the boycott list Monday by Denver's "Housewives for Lower Food Prices" organization were removed, said Mrs. Paul West, spokesman for the organization. They were the Miller chain of markets and Furr's Stores.

Left on the list were Safeway Stores, Red Owl Stores and King Soopers.

Some women who claim membership in the organization declared, however, they are continuing to boycott all the stores until there is evidence that prices will stay at lower levels set this week.

Safeway announced price cuts and King Soopers' vice president, Lloyd King, said his stores will meet any regular prices posted by other firms.

He expressed fear that a price war would break out which could damage retailers. King said every firm intends to retain its share of the Denver market.

Mrs. West said the Miller and Furr chains were removed from the boycott because they had shown substantial price cuts and because they had signed petitions calling for a federal investigation of food costs.

"We are not against profit," Mrs. West told newsmen.

Mrs. Peterson met with Mrs. West at the airport, and also held a news conference.

Mrs. Peterson said she is "on the side of the consumers — the housewives" and declared that prices of some food products are too high. She did not specify items she had in mind.

She also avoided any flat endorsement of the Denver housewives' boycott, explaining that she was not familiar with details of the Denver situation.

Mrs. Peterson warned against price wars, which she said usually lead to higher prices later.

Westinghouse Talks Reach Critical Stage

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiations in the Westinghouse Electric Corp. contract talks have reached the critical stage, say Federal mediators, who have increased their efforts in hopes of averting a possible strike by week's end.

Mediators met separately Thursday with the parties to discuss issues, which appear to be wages. Talks were scheduled to resume today between Westinghouse and three of four unions.

The strike threat intensified yesterday when Robert Nellis, chief negotiator for the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE), said, "The situation here is very grave."

Both Parties Pay Tribute To Sen. Byrd

BERRYVILLE, Va. (AP) — As a boy, he took over a dying newspaper and made it thrive. A few years later, he planted by hand the first of the apple trees that were to become the vast orchards that made him a millionaire.

Then he turned his thoughts — and actions — to public service. For 40 years, he was the dominant figure of Virginia Democratic politics. For 32 years, in the U.S. Senate, he was the embodiment of conservatism, independence and integrity.

When Harry Flood Byrd died Thursday at the age of 79 of a mlignant brain tumor, liberals and conservatives, Democrats and Republicans, joined in paying tribute to the man they had often fought but always admired.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, a Democratic liberal and majority leader of the Senate, summed it up: "He was always most understanding, he was always a gentleman, and he was always consistent."

A funeral service will be held for Byrd at 3 p.m. Sunday at Christ Episcopal Church in Winchester. He will be buried in the family plot in Mt. Hebron Cemetery, where his wife and daughter already lie, just up the street from the newspaper he owned, the Winchester Star.

President Johnson designated Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler, a native of Roanoke, Va., to represent him at the funeral.

In Wake Of Housewives Boycott

Johnson Aide Demands Study Of Trading Stamps

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A high-priority study of the costs of food sales promotion, including games of chance as well as trading stamps, is being demanded by President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs, Esther Peterson.

She disclosed her call for an investigation Thursday in Denver, where she came to look at a week-long boycott of some chain supermarkets by housewives demanding lower prices.

The request was made in a letter to Paul Rand Dixon, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. It included excerpts from letters received by Mrs. Peterson, referring to games as "gambling with our food dollars."

Two of five chains originally placed on the boycott list Monday by Denver's "Housewives for Lower Food Prices" organization were removed, said Mrs. Paul West, spokesman for the organization. They were the Miller chain of markets and Furr's Stores.

Left on the list were Safeway Stores, Red Owl Stores and King Soopers.

Some women who claim membership in the organization declared, however, they are continuing to boycott all the stores until there is evidence that prices will stay at lower levels set this week.

Safeway announced price cuts and King Soopers' vice president, Lloyd King, said his stores will meet any regular prices posted by other firms.

He expressed fear that a price war would break out which could damage retailers. King said every firm intends to retain its share of the Denver market.

Mrs. West said the Miller and Furr chains were removed from the boycott because they had shown substantial price cuts and because they had signed petitions calling for a federal investigation of food costs.

"We are not against profit," Mrs. West told newsmen.

Mrs. Peterson met with Mrs. West at the airport, and also held a news conference.

Mrs. Peterson said she is "on the side of the consumers — the housewives" and declared that prices of some food products are too high. She did not specify items she had in mind.

She also avoided any flat endorsement of the Denver housewives' boycott, explaining that she was not familiar with details of the Denver situation.

Mrs. Peterson warned against price wars, which she said usually lead to higher prices later.

Both Parties Pay Tribute To Sen. Byrd

BERRYVILLE, Va. (AP) — As a boy, he took over a dying newspaper and made it thrive. A few years later, he planted by hand the first of the apple trees that were to become the vast orchards that made him a millionaire.

Then he turned his thoughts — and actions — to public service. For 40 years, he was the dominant figure of Virginia Democratic politics. For 32 years, in the U.S. Senate, he was the embodiment of conservatism, independence and integrity.

Westinghouse Talks Reach Critical Stage

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiations in the Westinghouse Electric Corp. contract talks have reached the critical stage, say Federal mediators, who have increased their efforts in hopes of averting a possible strike by week's end.

Mediators met separately Thursday with the parties to discuss issues, which appear to be wages. Talks were scheduled to resume today between Westinghouse and three of four unions.

The strike threat intensified yesterday when Robert Nellis, chief negotiator for the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE), said, "The situation here is very grave."

'Woman's Career' Theme Of Program

100 Attend 'Guest Night' Of BPW

Nearly 100 attended the annual guest night of the East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's Club Wednesday at the Travelers Hotel.

Fifteen members of the ELHS Nike Club, which is sponsored by the BPW were among those present.

Entitled "A Woman's Career —As You See It!", the program was presented by 14 audience-selected members of the two clubs, with Mrs. Ethel Lynn Wambugh, public relations chairman, serving as moderator.

The case study method was followed, with mimeographed copies of a fictitious career woman's problems being distributed to the audience.

Following an eight-minute study and discussion period, the selected spokesman for each of 14 units into which the audience had been divided reported the answer to one of five assigned questions relating to the problems of the fictitious "Mary, the career woman."

The questions included, first, "What is your reaction to Mary and What is her problem?" The second related to whether the audience felt "the employer handled Mary properly." A third called for a discussion of the "relative merits of personality and training in job success" and the fourth introduced possible conflict between jobs of husband "Mary" was offered a job transfer to another city.

The fifth question, "How does Mary's problem relate to BPW?", was termed of "most importance" by Mrs. Wambaugh "in that it encourages our members to review and our guests to examine the many personal benefits we gain from being a part of a BPW Club".

IN HER closing remarks, Mrs. Wambaugh pointed out that "through membership in BPW, the employed woman is offered all kinds of career helps. She is encouraged to develop a sense of responsibility toward others; she forms stimulating contacts which help her create and develop new interests; through participation in program and projects of club, district, state and national units, she develops her ability to make decisions, received self - confidence and reveals her leadership qualities."

Emphasizing the "uniqueness of our four-point objectives — to elevate standards, to promote interests, to develop cooperation and to extend opportunities to all business and professional women" — Mrs. Wambaugh pointed out that "most employed women, regardless of their business or profession, need the broader perspective provided by BPW to avoid the narrow, concentrated or even selfish viewpoint. In BPW, women find stimulating friendships with women from all businesses, all professions, who have similar problems, but who have a common goal — to improve their status!"

She concluded by pointing out that Wednesday's program had been planned for the purpose of "demonstrating and calling attention to the activities and program objectives of the BPW federation during this National Business Women's Week observance."

Impromptu speakers during the program included Mrs. Alfred Bowen, Mrs. Edward Daily, Mrs. Robert Jones, Miss Karole Kapp, Miss Solina Liberatore, Mrs. Ernest Lowe, Miss Kathryn Marran, Mrs. N. A. Patchin, Mrs. Richard Springer, Mrs. Mildred Urie and Mrs. Senja Vaughn, all BPW members, and two Nike Club members.

Prior to the program, Miss Joan Witt, president, and Mrs. James G. McKinnon, chairman of the Nike Advisory Board, presented an engraved, silver-banded gavel to the Nike Club on behalf of their BPW sponsors. The gavel was presented to Miss Cathy Duffy, 1966-67 president of Nike, "as a symbol of leadership" by Miss Witt, who suggested that it "be used fairly and wisely in conducting meetings" and that it "be passed on to future leaders, along with the traditions, prestige and recognition earned by all your predecessors."

THE BUSINESS portion of Wednesday's event was confined to announcements by Miss Witt, including reminders of meetings of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, the first on Wednesday, Oct. 26, at Mary Patterson Memorial, and the benefit bridge planned for Thursday, Nov. 3, at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Miss Witt also reminded members of the Nov. 8 election, saying that the BPW theme for the month was "Combine in Citizenship" and urging support for the local School tax levy.

A final reminder concerned the meeting of the club's Executive Board next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in The Review's conference room. Miss Witt urged that all officers and standing committee chairmen be present.

Mrs. Clarence Moore, Mrs. John M. Thompson, Mrs. Richard Springer and Mrs. John Bebout served as program aids during the evening, with Mrs. Bebout in charge of table decorations.

Designed in the BPW federation "colors" of green and gold, audience tables were centered with lengths of green net, interspersed with gold flowers and fruits and lighted tapers. The speakers' table held large crystal bowls of gold flowers floating in green-tinted water and was centered with a green candelabra decorated with clusters of grapes and flowers.

No Airlift Gifts To GIs In Viet, Air Force Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, tightly squeezed for cargo space because of the Viet Nam war, has told its squadrons to stop flying civilian gifts of food and clothes to South Viet Nam for American GIs and homeless Vietnamese.

The directive, dated June 3 but not made available until today, also ruled out a Christmas airlift of cakes and cookies to U.S. troops this year.

"All transportation available to the Department of Defense is fully committed to meet worldwide logistical requirements of our armed forces, especially in Viet Nam," the directive said.

"The Department of Defense has no program which extends to transportation assistance for materials destined for the South Vietnamese."

Earlier, such flights of volunteer food and clothing regularly were made by the Air Force. And last Christmas the Air National Guard made hundreds of flights to carry 409 tons of goodies from home to U.S. soldiers in Viet Nam as part of "Operation Christmas Star."

"The reason we stopped is because of a shortage of airlift going to Southeast Asia," said one high officer. "There is a critical shortage of airlift."

Sources made clear, however, that the Air Force is meeting all of its military airlift requirements in Viet Nam. But they acknowledged that some less important — although still vital — supplies are going by water. "If we had the airlift," one official said, "they'd go by air too."

Although the June 3 directive was provided only for "policy guidance" sources said that no civilian gifts have been flown overseas since then.

The Air Force now tells persons or organizations wishing to donate food and clothing for overseas flights to Vietnamese refugees to check with the Agency for International Development, which runs some emergency relief programs.

For those who want to send food to U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam, the Air Force advises them to use the mails.

"Cookies can scarcely be considered an essential item," one source said. "The boys can buy them in the PX."

He added that it's not a question of being against such Christmas shipments. "I'm sure the Department of Defense would want to cooperate if it could, but the total tonnage now going over there is tremendous," he said.

Ceremonies Set At Quaker House

COLUMBUS — Completion of the restoration of the historic Friends (Quaker) Meeting House State Memorial at Mt. Pleasant in Jefferson County will be observed Sunday at 3 p.m. (DST) with a public dedicatory program.

The restoration is a capital improvements program of the state of Ohio.

Representatives of the Ohio Historical Society, administrator of the state memorial, the Society of Friends of Jefferson County and Mt. Pleasant civic and historical bodies will take part in the ceremonies.

The brick meeting house was erected in 1814 for the Ohio yearly meeting and was the first such meeting house built west of the Alleghenies.

The structure, measuring 92 by 60 feet, is able to accommodate 2,000 worshipers in its auditorium and extensive galleries.

Mt. Pleasant is located on State Routes 150 and 647 about 15 miles from St. Clairsville and the same distance from Wheeling.

After the Sunday dedication, the restored meeting house will be closed until spring when regular open hours will be established.

Auto Plunges Over Hillside

A 36-year-old East Liverpool woman escaped injury early Thursday night when her auto was forced off Dewey Ave. Ext. and plunged 25 feet down an embankment, police reported.

Mrs. Wilma J. Keener of 351 Ogden St. told Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes she was descending the grade when another auto forced her car off the road. She lost control of the car and it dived over the embankment, she said. The car was damaged extensively, officers reported. The crash was timed at 6:39 p.m.

Robert I. Lutton, 25, of 760 Sophia St. steered his 1963 two-door sedan into a wall about noon Thursday on Sophia St. after he discovered the brakes had failed, police reported.

Lutton told Patrolman Paul A. Burson Jr. he had just pulled away from a parking place at his home when he found the brakes were not functioning. He steered the car into a wall on Sophia St. about 80 feet north of Grace Alley, police said. The left front of the car was damaged.

Meanwhile, Orland D. Cunningham, 62, of 416 Grant St. told police the front bumper of his 1966 model four-wheel drive vehicle was damaged when bumped by an unidentified auto Thursday at 5:13 p.m. on E. 3rd St. at Walnut St.

Cunningham reported he was turning off E. 3rd onto Walnut when the other car drifted backward into his vehicle. The driver of the other car said he would pull out of the traffic lane to discuss the mishap, but instead he left the scene, Cunningham reported.

New Record Set By Koppers Sales

PITTSBURGH — Koppers sales for the third quarter of 1966 were $115,249,000, the highest for any quarter in the company's history. Sales were $98,386,000 in the same three months last year.

Net income for the quarter just completed was $3,170,000, essentially the same as the $3,181,000 earned during the comparable period of 1965. Because of a higher number of shares of common stock outstanding this year, net income for the three months ended Sept. 30 was equal to 65 cents per share, compared with 67 cents last year.

Koppers sales for the first nine months of 1966 were $310,618,000, also a company record for the period and well above the $265,386,000 recorded in the first three quarters last year.

Across-the-board increases by all Koppers operating divisions accounted for the improved sales performance.

The mayor's proclamation said residents should mark Monday "with a sense of rededication to the high truths which we in the United States hold to be self-evident, as expressed for us in the Constitution of the United States and for all the world in the Charter of the United Nations."

'Woman's Career' Theme Of Program

100 Attend 'Guest Night' Of BPW

Nearly 100 attended the annual guest night of the East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's Club Wednesday at the Travelers Hotel.

Fifteen members of the ELHS Nike Club, which is sponsored by the BPW were among those present.

Entitled "A Woman's Career —As You See It!", the program was presented by 14 audience-selected members of the two clubs, with Mrs. Ethel Lynn Wambugh, public relations chairman, serving as moderator.

The case study method was followed, with mimeographed copies of a fictitious career woman's problems being distributed to the audience.

Following an eight-minute study and discussion period, the selected spokesman for each of 14 units into which the audience had been divided reported the answer to one of five assigned questions relating to the problems of the fictitious "Mary, the career woman."

The questions included, first, "What is your reaction to Mary and What is her problem?" The second related to whether the audience felt "the employer handled Mary properly." A third called for a discussion of the "relative merits of personality and training in job success" and the fourth introduced possible conflict between jobs of husband "Mary" was offered a job transfer to another city.

The fifth question, "How does Mary's problem relate to BPW?", was termed of "most importance" by Mrs. Wambaugh "in that it encourages our members to review and our guests to examine the many personal benefits we gain from being a part of a BPW Club".

IN HER closing remarks, Mrs. Wambaugh pointed out that "through membership in BPW, the employed woman is offered all kinds of career helps. She is encouraged to develop a sense of responsibility toward others; she forms stimulating contacts which help her create and develop new interests; through participation in program and projects of club, district, state and national units, she develops her ability to make decisions, received self - confidence and reveals her leadership qualities."

Emphasizing the "uniqueness of our four-point objectives — to elevate standards, to promote interests, to develop cooperation and to extend opportunities to all business and professional women" — Mrs. Wambaugh pointed out that "most employed women, regardless of their business or profession, need the broader perspective provided by BPW to avoid the narrow, concentrated or even selfish viewpoint. In BPW, women find stimulating friendships with women from all businesses, all professions, who have similar problems, but who have a common goal — to improve their status!"

She concluded by pointing out that Wednesday's program had been planned for the purpose of "demonstrating and calling attention to the activities and program objectives of the BPW federation during this National Business Women's Week observance."

Impromptu speakers during the program included Mrs. Alfred Bowen, Mrs. Edward Daily, Mrs. Robert Jones, Miss Karole Kapp, Miss Solina Liberatore, Mrs. Ernest Lowe, Miss Kathryn Marran, Mrs. N. A. Patchin, Mrs. Richard Springer, Mrs. Mildred Urie and Mrs. Senja Vaughn, all BPW members, and two Nike Club members.

Prior to the program, Miss Joan Witt, president, and Mrs. James G. McKinnon, chairman of the Nike Advisory Board, presented an engraved, silver-banded gavel to the Nike Club on behalf of their BPW sponsors. The gavel was presented to Miss Cathy Duffy, 1966-67 president of Nike, "as a symbol of leadership" by Miss Witt, who suggested that it "be used fairly and wisely in conducting meetings" and that it "be passed on to future leaders, along with the traditions, prestige and recognition earned by all your predecessors."

THE BUSINESS portion of Wednesday's event was confined to announcements by Miss Witt, including reminders of meetings of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, the first on Wednesday, Oct. 26, at Mary Patterson Memorial, and the benefit bridge planned for Thursday, Nov. 3, at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: I have just run across one of the most terrific ideas I think I have had in many a full moon — and you know we only have a full moon once a month.

My husband and I just finished laying carpets and by the time you cut all of the "corners" there are bound to be a bunch of scraps left over. And I mean SCRAPS, not big pieces that you can use for throw rugs.

I whacked these up and used them to line drawers.

Not only does this cut down on the noise (especially where you have those metal drawers) but gives a nice cushion to anything you might have in a drawer (such as silverware divider tray) and keeps the stuff from sliding around.

I also used some in the bottom of cabinets and on shelves.

I had one tincy, wincy piece left and I used it to put in my kitchen window sill.

I don't know why, but everybody in every family always puts something on a window sill and the paint gets absolutely ruined.

So, let's don't ever throw throw away even a scrap of carpeting, no matter how small.

People who have these older type homes where the cold air scoots under the window in winter and air conditioning escapes in the summer, just try putting a little strip of the carpet right side up in the sill and then close that window.

It makes the window fit snug as a bug in a rug.

HELOISE.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I have four daughters who wear ponytails of some style, and have had a problem finding something to hold them.

Rubber bands twist in the hair, pulling and breaking it. So, I found a cheap and no-pulling way of using round elastic that has a fabric covering.

It doesn't hurt the hair or head and holds their hair securely in place.

BEV.

DEAR HELOISE: My husband uses an empty egg carton for small nails, tacks, bolts, and nuts etc., and keeps it in the trunk of his car.

The carton doesn't take up much room and can be kept closed with a heavy rubber band.

DEAR HELOISE: We like homemade appleasuce and when I make it, I first peel all the apples. Then I put the peelings in a large kettle with a little hot water and boil them while I quarter and core the apples.

I drain the water from the peelings into the apples, using it as the liquid for cooking them.

This gives them color (as all the red color is in the skin of the apples) and also gives the sauce a richer flavor.

C. H. A.

DEAR HELOISE: Will you tell me what will take mildew off the plastic cushions on my porch glider?

SARAH

-:-

Sarah, let's call on the unlimited experience and knowledge of our readers to help with your problem.

Ladies, please write to us in care of this paper and tell how you have licked this annoying problem.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I save our greeting cards and use them for shopping lists.

They are also good to use when leaving a note for someone, because when opened a little they will stand up on a table and can easily be seen.

MRS. A. AUSLANDER.

DEAR HELOISE: I came up with this idea after nearly ruining my no-grease, no-stick skillet by using a fork to turn meat. (And who doesn't grab a fork when cooking meat?)

I store my plastic turner with my skillet. Now I always remember to use nothing else but the plastic turner.

MRS. EARL FUCHS

DEAR HELOISE: For both indoor and outdoor drying of clothing, I put all dresses and shirts on inexpensive plastic hangers.

Then I hang them outdoors, I use a small piece of pipe cleaner to twist around the hook of the hanger and line so they can't blow off.

The little plastic - covered wires that come on vegetables are also good for securing hangers onto clotheslines.

Or, using a few feet of small link chain on one end of your clothesline and sticking the hanger hooks into the links, keeps the hangers from falling off the line.

HELOISE.

Brown Urges Mailing Now To Overseas

EAST LIVERPOOL — Postmaster Samuel W. Brown today issued the first warning notice of the season today for Christmas mailings.

Brown pointed out that the Post Office Department has designated today through Nov. 10 as the dates for mailing of Christmas parcels and greeting cards by surface transportation to members of the armed forces overseas. For parcels mailed air mail, the dates are Dec. 1 to Dec. 10. Parcels mailed after these dates will not be guaranteed delivery for any overseas serviceman, it was explained.

The department expects one of the greatest volume of mail this Christmas it has ever had and as a result in the large coast postal concentration centers where parcels will funnel for overseas efforts already have begun through hiring of extra employes to try and get the mails to Viet Nam and all other overseas stations with American units.

There are restrictions by APO numbers on what can be sent and how much and how parcels are to be packed. The postmaster advises that if any questions exist that the sender come to a local stamp clerk for this information to save time and to avoid having a package refused because of some technicality in size, weight, packaging or having contents not mailable.

"Now is the time to get that parcel off to the overseas serviceman. Time is running out. To be sure, mail early, mail now," Brown advised.

Permanent Program Set By Citizens For Schools

The role of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools as a year-round operation is planned, officials of the organization announced today.

Sidney C. Porter, president, said the committee's efforts "no longer will be a short-term job prior to elections."

Citing comments from members that they disliked working "only at levy time," Porter said the executive committee has decided to place the organization on a permanent basis.

He said a group of citizens, including attorneys, are planning to present a set of bylaws. "Once formed as a regular organization, we can hold more meetings and develop our membership drives."

Porter indicated the need for a permanent organization has grown in recent months.

"Our board of education needs a better reflection of the public's interest in our schools," he said.

"We intend to be on hand not only to help them in their job as administrators, but also to insure that the public's opinions get back to the board."

Porter said he did not believe the board always has acted in a way which would inspire the voter's confidence. "They do this unwittingly," he said. "They need some assistance in handling public relations."

He said a meeting will be held shortly after the Nov. 8 election in which a proposed 3.5 - mill operating levy for schools—supported by the Citizens Committee—will be considered by voters.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: I have just run across one of the most terrific ideas I think I have had in many a full moon — and you know we only have a full moon once a month.

My husband and I just finished laying carpets and by the time you cut all of the "corners" there are bound to be a bunch of scraps left over. And I mean SCRAPS, not big pieces that you can use for throw rugs.

I whacked these up and used them to line drawers.

Not only does this cut down on the noise (especially where you have those metal drawers) but gives a nice cushion to anything you might have in a drawer (such as silverware divider tray) and keeps the stuff from sliding around.

I also used some in the bottom of cabinets and on shelves.

I had one tincy, wincy piece left and I used it to put in my kitchen window sill.

I don't know why, but everybody in every family always puts something on a window sill and the paint gets absolutely ruined.

So, let's don't ever throw throw away even a scrap of carpeting, no matter how small.

People who have these older type homes where the cold air scoots under the window in winter and air conditioning escapes in the summer, just try putting a little strip of the carpet right side up in the sill and then close that window.

It makes the window fit snug as a bug in a rug.

HELOISE.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I have four daughters who wear ponytiails of some style, and have had a problem finding something to hold them.

Rubber bands twist in the hair, pulling and breaking it. So, I found a cheap and no-pulling way of using round elastic that has a fabric covering.

It doesn't hurt the hair or head and holds their hair securely in place.

BEV.

DEAR HELOISE: My husband uses an empty egg carton for small nails, tacks, bolts, and nuts etc., and keeps it in the trunk of his car.

The carton doesn't take up much room and can be kept closed with a heavy rubber band.

DEAR HELOISE: We like homemade appleasuce and when I make it, I first peel all the apples. Then I put the peelings in a large kettle with a little hot water and boil them while I quarter and core the apples.

I drain the water from the peelings into the apples, using it as the liquid for cooking them.

This gives them color (as all the red color is in the skin of the apples) and also gives the sauce a richer flavor.

C. H. A.

DEAR HELOISE: Will you tell me what will take mildew off the plastic cushions on my porch glider?

Sarah, let's call on the unlimited experience and knowledge of our readers to help with your problem.

Ladies, please write to us in care of this paper and tell how you have licked this annoying problem.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I save our greeting cards and use them for shopping lists.

They are also good to use when leaving a note for someone, because when opened a little they will stand up on a table and can easily be seen.

MRS. A. AUSLANDER

DEAR HELOISE: I came up with this idea after nearly ruining my no-grease, no-stick skillet by using a fork to turn meat. (And who doesn't grab a fork when cooking meat?)

I store my plastic turner with my skillet. Now I always remember to use nothing else but the plastic turner.

MRS. EARL FUCHS

DEAR HELOISE: For both indoor and outdoor drying of clothing, I put all dresses and shirts on inexpensive plastic hangers.

Then I hang them outdoors, I use a small piece of pipe cleaner to twist around the hook of the hanger and line so they can't blow off.

The little plastic - covered wires that come on vegetables are also good for securing hangers onto clotheslines.

Or, using a few feet of small link chain on one end of your clothesline and sticking the hanger hooks into the links, keeps the hangers from falling off the line.

HELOISE.

Brown Urges Mailing Now To Overseas

EAST LIVERPOOL — Postmaster Samuel W. Brown today issued the first warning notice of the season today for Christmas mailings.

Brown pointed out that the Post Office Department has designated today through Nov. 10 as the dates for mailing of Christmas parcels and greeting cards by surface transportation to members of the armed forces overseas. For parcels mailed air mail, the dates are Dec. 1 to Dec. 10. Parcels mailed after these dates will not be guaranteed delivery for any overseas serviceman, it was explained.

The department expects one of the greatest volume of mail this Christmas it has ever had and as a result in the large coast postal concentration centers where parcels will funnel for overseas efforts already have begun through hiring of extra employes to try and get the mails to Viet Nam and all other overseas stations with American units.

There are restrictions by APO numbers on what can be sent and how much and how parcels are to be packed. The postmaster advises that if any questions exist that the sender come to a local stamp clerk for this information to save time and to avoid having a package refused because of some technicality in size, weight, packaging or having contents not mailable.

"Now is the time to get that parcel off to the overseas serviceman. Time is running out. To be sure, mail early, mail now," Brown advised.

Permanent Program Set By Citizens For Schools

The role of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools as a year-round operation is planned, officials of the organization announced today.

Sidney C. Porter, president, said the committee's efforts "no longer will be a short-term job prior to elections."

Citing comments from members that they disliked working "only at levy time," Porter said the executive committee has decided to place the organization on a permanent basis.

He said a group of citizens, including attorneys, are planning to present a set of bylaws. "Once formed as a regular organization, we can hold more meetings and develop our membership drives."

Porter indicated the need for a permanent organization has grown in recent months.

"Our board of education needs a better reflection of the public's interest in our schools," he said.

"We intend to be on hand not only to help them in their job as administrators, but also to insure that the public's opinions get back to the board."

Porter said he did not believe the board always has acted in a way which would inspire the voter's confidence. "They do this unwittingly," he said. "They need some assistance in handling public relations."

He said a meeting will be held shortly after the Nov. 8 election in which a proposed 3.5 - mill operating levy for schools—supported by the Citizens Committee—will be considered by voters.

McIntire's Team Unbeaten . . .

Vic McIntire, a 1943 graduate of Wellsville High School, is the dean of Lake County coaches in length of service.

McIntire is in his 10th season at Eastlake North, a suburban Cleveland High School, and perhaps this season will be his best.

North currently is undefeated, but has been tied once, for a 5-0-1 record. McIntire's team meets strong competition, including Warren on Nov. 4 at Warren.

McIntire is the only football coach the school has ever had since beginning the sport in 1956. The first few years were tough for the ex-Wellsville athlete and his teams showed only a 9-25-3 mark after four campaigns.

His efforts finally began paying off, however and the last five seasons all have been winning campaigns. His record during this period is 37-10-3, with two co-championships in the Greater Cleveland Conference, one outright title and two second-place finishes.

McIntire learned his football at Kent State. After serving in the Navy, he was graduated from Kent in 1950. He played under Coach Trevor Rees and earned two varsity letters, doing a little bit of everything for the Golden Flashes — quarterback, guard and fullback.

He began coaching at Wooster High School as an assistant, then served one year as assistant football and head baseball coach at Presbyterian College in South Carolina before going to North.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. McIntire, 914 Center St., Wellsville.

Massillon Not Used To Losing . . .

UP MASSILLON way they have been used to winning and don't like a loser. That's why coach Bob Seaman in his first year received a cold welcome at a meeting of the Tiger Booster Club earlier this week.

Massillon lost its second game of the season Saturday to Altoona and when Seaman was introduced there was no applause from the crowd of some 400.

It just might be that Massillon could lose its third in a row Friday night. The Tigers meet fourth-ranked Upper Arlington.

According to a newspaper article, some Massillon fans are openly critical of Seaman's play - calling, particularly because he doesn't pass much.

IN WEST VIRGINIA, Barrackville High School forfeited its three football victories for using an ineligible player. Victories were awarded to Cameron, Farmington and Clay Battelle. The Barrackville principal said the school officials were to blame for not uncovering the matter sooner. The player in question passed only two major subjects. Passing grades in three are required for eligibility.

THE SLATE last week in the forcasting of local games came out with seven right and three wrong.

Again, and to the enjoyment of Potter fans, we were wrong on the outcome of the East Liverpool - Beaver Falls thriller. That makes three weeks in a row we haven't had the Potters correct. But we feel quite confident in our choice tonight — the Potters by a good margin over a young Martins Ferry team.

Midland may have a struggle, but should get by Rochester tonight, while Salem is our pick to continue its long string of victories over Wellsville.

Stanton faces a dangerous opponent in Springfield Local, but we look for Stanton to remain unbeaten, while Jefferson Union is given the nod over Southern.

In Tri-County action, we like Columbiana over Sebring, Minerva to nip East Palestine, Poland over Leetonia and Louisville to roll on.

Saturday's schedule is featured by the Oak Glen-Beaver Local battle. We are leaning to Oak Glen in this one, but the contest should be close.

United gets the nod over Crestview and Avonworth is picked to trip South Side.

OU Out To Snap Redskins' Streak

By The Associated Press

Miami puts its 11-game winning streak, the nation's longest, in jeopardy Saturday when the Redskins invade Athens for a crucial Mid-American Conference skirmish with Ohio University.

Around the circuit, they're hoping the surging Bobcats can stop the Miami express.

It's the top game of the 23 on the Ohio collegiate program that also features such highlights as Wisconsin at Ohio State, Kent State at Bowling Green, Kansas State at Cincinnati and Northern Michigan at Dayton.

Coach Bo Schembechler's Redskins, 3-0 in the league, come to grips with a Bobcat club that has won four straight and stands 2-0 in the loop.

Miami could be headed for disaster against an aroused Ohio team that is aching to pay back for a 34-0 licking a year ago. This one features the running and passing of Bruce Matte and Joe Kozar against Ohio's duo of fullback Bob Houmard and passer Ron DeLucca.

Ohio State is favored to knock off Wisconsin on Homecoming Day and snap a three-game losing streak. The Bucks will be seeking their first Big Ten victory of the season against a Badger eleven that shows a victory and a tie in league play.

Bowling Green, 1-1 in the MAC, has its work cut out against luckless Kent, 0-3 while Toledo, 1-2, visits aspiring Western Michigan, 2-1.

Dayton hopes to make Northern Michigan its fifth victim in six starts while Cincinnati tangles with Kansas State of the Big Eight.

Other top contests pit Chattanooga against Xavier under the lights in Cincinnati; Baldwin-Wallace at Akron and Wabash at Ohio Wesleyan.

The others:

Wooster at Muskingum; Hiram at Mount Union; Heidelberg at Wittenberg; Oberlin at Denison; Otterbein at Marietta; Defiance at Bluffton (N); John Carroll at Capital; Wilmington at Kenyon; Ashland at Ohio Northern; Kentucky State at Central State.

Cardinals Held Dallas Star Last Week

It's Browns Turn To Work On Hayes

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the St. Louis Cardinals worked the next-to-impossible on Bob Hayes last Sunday, the Cleveland Browns may have to make it the impossible this Sunday if they hope to remain in contention in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

The Cardinals had to do more than just stop the speedy Hayes in gaining a 10-10 tie with Dallas in the battle of Eastern unbeatens, but they did stop him. Hayes gained just 24 yards on three pass receptions and didn't score a touchdown for the first time in eight games, counting exhibitions.

"He's next to impossible to cover," said Cardinal defensive back Abe Woodson. "All I tried to do was destroy his patterns. Only the fact that our pass rush hurried the quarterback saved me a couple of times."

Now it's the Browns' turn to try and stop Hayes, who leads the NFL with seven touchdown passes caught.

The Browns already have lost two of their five games while Dallas is 4-0-1 and St. Louis, which plays Washington is 5-0-1. Another loss could be damaging to the Browns, who are trying to win the title this year without Jimmy Brown.

Atlanta, incidentally, has more than a rough task Sunday in trying for its first league victory. The Falcons play Green Bay, the Western leader with a 5-1 mark.

In other NFL games, Los Angeles is at Chicago, Minnesota at Baltimore, Philadelphia at New York and Detroit at San Francisco.

In the American League, Eastern Division-leading New York hosts Oakland, Western leader San Diego is at Boston, Miami is at Houston and Kansas City is at Denver.

St. Louis appears to have a comparatively easy task to remain undefeated, playing Washington, 3-3. In their first meeting the Cardinals scored 17 fourth-quarter points for a 23-7 triumph. The Redskins' biggest threat is Bobby Mitchell, who leads the league with 28 pass receptions.

Green Bay also should remain atop the West. The Packers blanked Chicago last Sunday, and the Falcons shouldn't do much better.

Chicago, meanwhile, will try to get back in the scoring column against Los Angeles, which is only one game behind the Packers.

The Rams also would like to stay ahead of the Baltimore Colts, who will be seeking their second victory this season over Minnesota.

The New York Giants finally have a victory on their side but must halt Philadelphia's Timmy Brown, who had his best game of the season last week, rushing for 96 yards against Pittsburgh.

The winner of the Detroit-San Francisco game goes ahead in the all-time series between the teams but probably not very far in the league standings.

Immunity From Antitrust Laws

Congress Okays Merger Of Pro Football Leagues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress gave its okay today to an agreement by the National and American professional football leagues to combine into a single expanded league.

The legislation gives the merger agreement immunity from the antitrust laws. Final action came in the Senate, hard on the heels of approval by the House Thursday night.

The football bill was a rider on the administration's anti-inflation tax bill, which was passed by voice vote with only about half a dozen senators in the chamber.

The measure now goes to President Johnson for his approval.

The big play was Thursday's House approval of the bill over objections of Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., who had held up other versions of the plan in his House Judiciary Committee.

Tacking the provisions onto the tax bill enabled pro football to finally skirt Celler's committee.

"The end run was made not around me," insisted Celler during debate, "but around the public, who now have no way of knowing the whys and the wherefores and the results that may flow from this football merger."

The provisions would allow the leagues to follow through on their announced plans to combine into one 24-team operation, expand to a 26-team league by 1968 and possibly add two more franchises by 1970.

Perhaps the key merger provision is elimination of competitive drafts of college players.

The interleague bonus and salary war had brought on such reported payments as $400,000 to New York Jets' quarterback Joe Namath from Alabama and $900,000 to San Francisco 49ers' quarterback John Brodie, who was negotiating to switch leagues after nine seasons in the NFL.

Now a drafted player will have no choice of clubs if he wants to play in a major U.S. league. Some competition with the Canadian Football League and with other pro sports in the case of two-sport athletes will probably keep bonuses from hitting rock-bottom, however.

The provisions grant antitrust immunity only to the fact of the merger.

Martins Ferry Homecoming Foe

The East Liverpool Potters, ranked 20th in the state this week, will attempt to continue their winning streak and are a heavy favorite to do so tonight when Martins Ferry visits Patterson Field for a 7:45 kickoff.

Homecoming will be observed tonight as the Potters go after their fifth victory in a row and sixth in seven games.

While Martins Ferry hasn't won a game in six outings, Coach Bob McNea feels the Riders are better than their record may indicate. He pointed to the losses to Bridgeport, (13-12) and Wheeling (7-0) where the Riders were impressive.

"They have a good passer but its a young team with a lot of juniors and sophomores," McNea said.

In addition to the six losses this year, Martins Ferry lost the last six games last season and owns a 12-game losing streak. The Potters had little trouble in 1965 rolling to a 40-6 victory at Martins Ferry.

McNea reported sophomore fullback Jim Musuraca would be ready to play tonight but that the other fullback Bill Jones has a sprained ankle and isn't expected to see any action.

Last week with Musuraca out and the Potters trailing 7-0 McNea moved the versatile Mike McVay to fullback and inserted Earl Diddle to quarterback.

With Diddle at the controls and McVay running well at fullback the Potters scored twice in the fourth period with Diddle's passing leading to the winning touchdown.

Denny Smith and Darryl Herring will round out the Potter backfield.

Bill Hopper, a junior who was a dependable guard and won several player of the week honors, may be lost for the season after twisting his knee two games ago.

Bob Tolson will be replacing Hopper at guard.

U.S. Edges Russian Team In Winning Gold Medals

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico's Little Olympics have come to a close with the United States edging Russia in the unofficial standings of gold medals. The American athletes wound up with 22 first places while the Soviet Union compiled 21 gold awards.

The Americans equaled a pair of Olympic track and field records Thursday in the windup of the nine-day competition in such diversified sports as bicycle racing and canoeing.

Bob Seagren of Los Angeles won the pole vault in 16-8¾ to tie the Olympic record held by fellow American Fred Hansen. Seagren, however, has vaulted as high as 17-5½ before.

Tommie Smith, of San Jose, Calif., the world record holder in the 200-meter dash, matched the Olympic mark of 20.3, just one-tenth of a second slower than his world standard.

Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., the U.S. indoor one-mile record-holder, failed to finish the 1,500-meter event, won by Bodo Tummler of West Germany. Grelle, apparently exhausted, would not comment as to his dropping out.

West Germany ended up with two gold medals in the last round of track and field. Russia, Hungary, Poland, Cuba, Colombia and Spain won one medal each in track and field Thursday.

An athlete from France captured the modern pentathlon and Denmark and Czechoslovakia won cycling gold medals on the final day. In boxing, Mexico accounted for 3½ golds, Cuba and Russia won two each and Poland captured 1½ on the last day of competition.

The Russians dominated the wrestling finals with three gold medals. Hungary, West Germany and Romania took one apiece.

Some 788 athletes representing 25 countries were entered in the games. The competition was held mainly to see how the athletes would react to the oxygen-thin air at Mexico City's altitude of 7,349 feet.

Potters Heavy Favorite To Post 6th Win

The Review Sports

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1966 EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW PAGE 14

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

McIntire's Team Unbeaten . . .

Vic McIntire, a 1943 graduate of Wellsville High School, is the dean of Lake County coaches in length of service.

McIntire is in his 10th season at Eastlake North, a suburban Cleveland High School, and perhaps this season will be his best.

North currently is undefeated, but has been tied once, for a 5-0-1 record. McIntire's team meets strong competition, including Warren on Nov. 4 at Warren.

McIntire is the only football coach the school has ever had since beginning the sport in 1956. The first few years were tough for the ex-Wellsville athlete and his teams showed only a 9-25-3 mark after four campaigns.

His efforts finally began paying off, however and the last five seasons all have been winning campaigns. His record during this period is 37-10-3, with two co-championships in the Greater Cleveland Conference, one outright title and two second-place finishes.

McIntire learned his football at Kent State. After serving in the Navy, he was graduated from Kent in 1950. He played under Coach Trevor Rees and earned two varsity letters, doing a little bit of everything for the Golden Flashes — quarterback, guard and fullback.

He began coaching at Wooster High School as an assistant, then served one year as assistant football and head baseball coach at Presbyterian College in South Carolina before going to North.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. McIntire, 914 Center St., Wellsville.

Massillon Not Used To Losing . . .

UP MASSILLON way they have been used to winning and don't like a loser. That's why coach Bob Seaman in his first year received a cold welcome at a meeting of the Tiger Booster Club earlier this week.

Massillon lost its second game of the season Saturday to Altoona and when Seaman was introduced there was no applause from the crowd of some 400.

It just might be that Massillon could lose its third in a row Friday night. The Tigers meet fourth-ranked Upper Arlington.

According to a newspaper article, some Massillon fans are openly critical of Seaman's play - calling, particularly because he doesn't pass much.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

VINCE MAOLA, who turned out those outstanding bands at East Liverpool High School, is instrumental director at Olney High School in Philadelphia and his band will be featured at halftime this week during the Olney-Roxborough game which will be televised over a Philadelphia station.

Olney High School, in northern Philadelphia, is a four-year high school with an enrollment of 4,400. Vince's wife is an elementary music teacher in Philadelphia.

IN WEST VIRGINIA, Barrackville High School forfeited its three football victories for using an ineligible player. Victories were awarded to Cameron, Farmington and Clay Battelle. The Barrackville principal said the school officials were to blame for not uncovering the matter sooner. The player in question passed only two major subjects. Passing grades in three are required for eligibility.

THE SLATE last week in the forcasting of local games came out with seven right and three wrong.

Again, and to the enjoyment of Potter fans, we were wrong on the outcome of the East Liverpool - Beaver Falls thriller. That makes three weeks in a row we haven't had the Potters correct. But we feel quite confident in our choice tonight — the Potters by a good margin over a young Martins Ferry team.

Midland may have a struggle, but should get by Rochester tonight, while Salem is our pick to continue its long string of victories over Wellsville.

Stanton faces a dangerous opponent in Springfield Local, but we look for Stanton to remain unbeaten, while Jefferson Union is given the nod over Southern.

In Tri-County action, we like Columbiana over Sebring, Minerva to nip East Palestine, Poland over Leetonia and Louisville to roll on.

Saturday's schedule is featured by the Oak Glen-Beaver Local battle. We are leaning to Oak Glen in this one, but the contest should be close.

United gets the nod over Crestview and Avonworth is picked to trip South Side.

OU Out To Snap Redskins' Streak

By The Associated Press

Miami puts its 11-game winning streak, the nation's longest, in jeopardy Saturday when the Redskins invade Athens for a crucial Mid-American Conference skirmish with Ohio University.

Around the circuit, they're hoping the surging Bobcats can stop the Miami express.

It's the top game of the 23 on the Ohio collegiate program that also features such highlights as Wisconsin at Ohio State, Kent State at Bowling Green, Kansas State at Cincinnati and Northern Michigan at Dayton.

Coach Bo Schembechler's Redskins, 3-0 in the league, come to grips with a Bobcat club that has won four straight and stands 2-0 in the loop.

Miami could be headed for disaster against an aroused Ohio team that is aching to pay back for a 34-0 licking a year ago. This one features the running and passing of Bruce Matte and Joe Kozar against Ohio's duo of fullback Bob Houmard and passer Ron DeLucca.

Ohio State is favored to knock off Wisconsin on Homecoming Day and snap a three-game losing streak. The Bucks will be seeking their first Big Ten victory of the season against a Badger eleven that shows a victory and a tie in league play.

Bowling Green, 1-1 in the MAC, has its work cut out against luckless Kent, 0-3 while Toledo, 1-2, visits aspiring Western Michigan, 2-1.

Dayton hopes to make Northern Michigan its fifth victim in six starts while Cincinnati tangles with Kansas State of the Big Eight.

Other top contests pit Chattanooga against Xavier under the lights in Cincinnati; Baldwin-Wallace at Akron and Wabash at Ohio Wesleyan.

The others:

Wooster at Muskingum; Hiram at Mount Union; Heidelberg at Wittenberg; Oberlin at Denison; Otterbein at Marietta; Defiance at Bluffton (N); John Carroll at Capital; Wilmington at Kenyon; Ashland at Ohio Northern; Kentucky State at Central State.

Cardinals Held Dallas Star Last Week

It's Browns Turn To Work On Hayes

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the St. Louis Cardinals worked the next-to-impossible on Bob Hayes last Sunday, the Cleveland Browns may have to make it the impossible this Sunday if they hope to remain in contention in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

The Cardinals had to do more than just stop the speedy Hayes in gaining a 10-10 tie with Dallas in the battle of Eastern unbeatens, but they did stop him. Hayes gained just 24 yards on three pass receptions and didn't score a touchdown for the first time in eight games, counting exhibitions.

"He's next to impossible to cover," said Cardinal defensive back Abe Woodson. "All I tried to do was destroy his patterns. Only the fact that our pass rush hurried the quarterback saved me a couple of times."

Now it's the Browns' turn to try and stop Hayes, who leads the NFL with seven touchdown passes caught.

The Browns already have lost two of their five games while Dallas is 4-0-1 and St. Louis, which plays Washington is 5-0-1. Another loss could be damaging to the Browns, who are trying to win the title this year without Jimmy Brown.

Atlanta, incidentally, has more than a rough task Sunday in trying for its first league victory. The Falcons play Green Bay, the Western leader with a 5-1 mark.

In other NFL games, Los Angeles is at Chicago, Minnesota at Baltimore, Philadelphia at New York and Detroit at San Francisco.

In the American League, Eastern Division-leading New York hosts Oakland, Western leader San Diego is at Boston, Miami is at Houston and Kansas City is at Denver.

St. Louis appears to have a comparatively easy task to remain undefeated, playing Washington, 3-3. In their first meeting the Cardinals scored 17 fourth-quarter points for a 23-7 triumph. The Redskins' biggest threat is Bobby Mitchell, who leads the league with 28 pass receptions.

Green Bay also should remain atop the West. The Packers blanked Chicago last Sunday, and the Falcons shouldn't do much better.

Chicago, meanwhile, will try to get back in the scoring column against Los Angeles, which is only one game behind the Packers.

The Rams also would like to stay ahead of the Baltimore Colts, who will be seeking their second victory this season over Minnesota.

The New York Giants finally have a victory on their side but must halt Philadelphia's Timmy Brown, who had his best game of the season last week, rushing for 96 yards against Pittsburgh.

The winner of the Detroit-San Francisco game goes ahead in the all-time series between the teams but probably not very far in the league standings.

Bolt, Prentice Hold Golf Lead

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP)—Tommy Bolt and Jo Ann Prentice carried a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $60,000 Haig Scotch Mixed Golf Championship.

Bolt, of Sarasota, Fla., and Miss Prentice, of Pensacola, Fla., combined for a 68 Thursday on the par 36-36—72 La Costa Country Club course by firing six birdies and two bogeys.

In second place for the 72-hole event were teams of Tommy Jacobs-Sandra Haynie, Don Cherry-Donna Caponi and Jack Rule-Sandra Spuzich.

Despite a hole-in-one on the 135-yard water hole 16th by Ruth Jessen, she and Gardner Dickinson, defending champions in the event, faltered to a 74. However, her ace was worth a $1,000 bonus.

Frisco Ends Win Streak Of New Team

By The Associated Press

The three-game winning streak of the new Chicago Bulls in the National Basketball Association was snapped by San Francisco Thursday night.

The Bulls went down fighting, 121-111, with Guy Rodgers of Chicago, formerly with San Francisco, coming to blows with Paul Neumann and Rick Barry of the Warriors. John Kerr, the Chicago coach, also was ejected from the bench for disputing the calls of the officials.

St. Louis whipped Detroit in the only other NBA game scheduled.

Barry threw in 43 points to lead the Warriors to their victory over the Bulls at San Jose, Calif. Nate Thurmond was second high with 19 points and 18 rebounds. Rodgers led the Bulls with 26 points.

Lou Hudson, the rookie from Minnesota, teamed with veteran Zelmo Beaty and Len Wilkens to lead St. Louis over Detroit on the Pistons' home court.

Beaty got 31 points and 20 rebounds. Hudson and Wilkens each scored 24 points. Dave DeBusschere topped the Pistons with 32 points and 19 rebounds.

Cecil (Hooty) Ingram, an assistant football coach at Georgia, intercepted 10 passes while playing for Alabama in 1952.

Bolt, Prentice Hold Golf Lead

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP)—Tommy Bolt and Jo Ann Prentice carried a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $60,000 Haig Scotch Mixed Golf Championship.

Bolt, of Sarasota, Fla., and Miss Prentice, of Pensacola, Fla., combined for a 68 Thursday on the par 36-36—72 La Costa Country Club course by firing six birdies and two bogeys.

In second place for the 72-hole event were teams of Tommy Jacobs-Sandra Haynie, Don Cherry-Donna Caponi and Jack Rule-Sandra Spuzich.

Despite a hole-in-one on the 135-yard water hole 16th by Ruth Jessen, she and Gardner Dickinson, defending champions in the event, faltered to a 74. However, her ace was worth a $1,000 bonus.

Frisco Ends Win Streak Of New Team

By The Associated Press

The three-game winning streak of the new Chicago Bulls in the National Basketball Association was snapped by San Francisco Thursday night.

The Bulls went down fighting, 121-111, with Guy Rodgers of Chicago, formerly with San Francisco, coming to blows with Paul Neumann and Rick Barry of the Warriors. John Kerr, the Chicago coach, also was ejected from the bench for disputing the calls of the officials.

St. Louis whipped Detroit in the only other NBA game scheduled.

Barry threw in 42 points to lead the Warriors to their victory over the Bulls at San Jose, Calif. Nate Thurmond was second high with 19 points and 18 rebounds. Rodgers led the Bulls with 26 points.

Lou Hudson, the rookie from Minnesota, teamed with veteran Zelmo Beaty and Len Wilkens to lead St. Louis over Detroit on the Pistons' home court.

Beaty got 31 points and 20 rebounds. Hudson and Wilkens each scored 24 points. Dave DeBusschere topped the Pistons with 32 points and 19 rebounds.

Cecil (Hooty) Ingram, an assistant football coach at Georgia, intercepted 10 passes while playing for Alabama in 1952.

Schedule Set By Recruiter For Midland

Sgt. Robert Dusock, newly assigned as an Army recruiter, will be in Midland every Thursday at the Borough Building between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

He pointed out that most of the enlistment programs still call for only a three-year active duty period in the Army.

There are currently more than 150 technical school courses to choose from in courses available to high school graduates.

For the non-high school graduate, the Army offers guaranteed on-the-job training.

College graduates can qualify and enlist for guaranteed assignment to Officer Candidate School.

Those desiring information concerning enlistment may visit Sgt. Dusock at the Midland Borough Building on Thursday or call the Army recruiting station in East Liverpool, 386-4262, collect.

On West Virginia Ballot

Measure Would Ease Court Load

By HERB LITTLE

CHARLESTON (AP) — The proposed Judicial Circuit Amendment to the West Virginia Constitution is an attempt to make the wheels of justice turn faster by placing more circuit judges where the court dockets are heaviest.

This proposal is No. 3 among five amendments on the ballot for ratification or rejection in the Nov. 8 election. So far it seems the least controversial of the lot.

In simplest terms, the amendment aims at distribution of circuit judgeships in accordance with population concentrations that could not be foreseen when the present constitution was adopted in 1872.

The constitution now provides for two circuit judges in the 1st Judicial Circuit (Brooke, Hancock and Ohio counties) and one in each of the other circuits. There are 29 judicial circuits.

WHILE THIS arrangement might have suited the 1872 population distribution, present populations vary greatly among the 28 circuits that are restricted to one circuit judge apiece.

The 3rd Circuit (Dodridge, Pleasants and Ritchie counties) had a population of 24,971 in the 1960 census; the 5th Circuit (Cabell) had 108,202, and the 13th Circuit (Kanawha) had 252,925.

Barred from increasing the number of circuit judges per circuit, the legislature over the years has tried to equalize work loads by another method, creation of courts of limited jurisdiction below the circuit court level.

These are the tribunals known as intermediate, criminal, common pleas, domestic relations and juvenile courts. There are now 14 of these limited jurisdiction courts in 10 counties. They handle hundreds of cases that otherwise would be in circuit courts.

But the remedy itself creates bottlenecks, since appeals from the limited jurisdiction courts must pass through circuit court before going to the State Supreme Court. Here in Kanawha County one circuit court with one judge is the first stop on the appeal route from four lesser courts with five judges.

IF THE pending judicial amendment is ratified, the constitution will no longer limit the number of circuit judges per circuit.

The legislature, under the amendment, would have power in circuits that need them. Alternatively, the legislature could upgrade judges of limited jurisdiction courts to circuit judgeships in the circuits where they live.

In a circuit with two or more circuit judges, the judge with the longest continuous service would be the circuit's chief judge.

A citizens' committee formed to promote passage of the amendment said the change would provide relief "where dockets are heavy and trials frequently delayed for long periods of time."

TO EXPLAIN the amendments to the public, the committee prepared a series of questions and answers which included the following:

Q—Would the amendment increase the number of judges?

A.—Not necessarily. The legislature can now establish new circuits and create additional courts of limited jurisdiction which would increase the number of judges. . . By making some of the judges of courts of limited jurisdiction circuit judges, the work load of the present circuit judges would be reduced and court business expedited without any additional judges.

Q.—Would the amendment change existing circuits?

A.—No. The existing boundaries of circuits are not changed by this amendment. The power of the legislature to rearrange circuits is covered by another section of the constitution.

A.—Would the amendment change the justice of the peace system?

A.—Absolutely not. It has no bearing on the justice of the peace system.

The amendment has the support of several major statewide organizations and the open opposition of none.

Organizations which have endorsed it include the state bar, the West Virginia Judicial Association, the West Virginia Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, the state Chamber of Commerce, the West Virginia Farm Bureau and the executive committee of the West Virginia Education Association.

2 Cyclists In Attack Case Denied Freedom

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two motorcyclists accused of taking part in the mass rape of an 18-year-old girl were in jail today, their pleas for freedom refused.

Scott Cope, 25, and William Douglas, 23, both of Rochester, Beaver County, contended their arrests last summer were illegal because no warrants had been issued.

But Judge John P. Hester of Allegheny County Criminal Court ruled Thursday that police had enough evidence to make the arrests without warrants. The judge denied the defendants' petition for release.

Cope and Douglas were among 13 Beaver County motorcyclists arrested in the case.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

What Is Back Of Slimming?

When I read a shining success story many questions come to my mind. In the case of the been fat all their lives, what helped them to finally come to grips with the weight problem? To recap the story: The mother weighed 189 pounds and Ida Jean Kain the daughter, 22, weighed 196. Both are 5' 2" tall and wore size 20½.

What prompted them to take action? "We never could find clothes that were youthful looking in a size 20½," the mother explained.

What season did they start? Early fall. "We both knew we would be weighing 200 pounds by spring the way we were headed," she wrote.

HAD THEY tried to reduce before? "Yes, eight years ago we both tried taking reducing pills and we lost but after stopping the pills we gained our weight back twice as fast and were both fatter than ever. So this time, no pills."

Were they under a doctor's care? Yes. The mother had regular checkups because of an enlarged heart. Instead of asking the doctor for a presciption they simply went ahead and cut down on their food. The mother and the daughter took turns preparing the slimming meals, and this was fun and a challenge.

How many pounds did they lose before anyone commented? Between 15 and 20 pounds. The first year the mother reduced 47 pounds and the daughter 59 pounds. An average of 4 to 5 pounds a month is perfect.

"After we had reduced 25 to 30 pounds, it became harder to lose. But by then everyone was telling us how much better we looked. This encouraged us to continue. We tried even harder and started exercising. My daughter exercised daily and this helped to reshape her figure. I joined her part of the time and also walked to retone my muscles," the mother reported.

THE hardest part? "Learning to refuse homemade bread, pastries and the rich foods my family enjoy. One must decide that such foods are no favor to a reducer. I can truly say I don't even miss them now," she added.

"We are both so thankful we stayed with the project. It was five years ago that we set about reducing. My daughter now weighs 115 pounds which is perfect for 5' 2". I weigh 135 pounds, which is right for me. We both feel wonderful. It takes determination, but it is amazing how much staying power you can build up when you become interested in a project," the mother concluded.

There it is, when you are actively interested, slimming down becomes a stimulating challenge and a happy way of life.

Measure Would Ease Court Load

By HERB LITTLE

CHARLESTON (AP) — The proposed Judicial Circuit Amendment to the West Virginia Constitution is an attempt to make the wheels of justice turn faster by placing more circuit judges where the court dockets are heaviest.

This proposal is No. 3 among five amendments on the ballot for ratification or rejection in the Nov. 8 election. So far it seems the least controversial of the lot.

In simplest terms, the amendment aims at distribution of circuit judgeships in accordance with population concentrations that could not be foreseen when the present constitution was adopted in 1872.

The constitution now provides for two circuit judges in the 1st Judicial Circuit (Brooke, Hancock and Ohio counties) and one in each of the other circuits. There are 29 judicial circuits.

WHILE THIS arrangement might have suited the 1872 population distribution, present populations vary greatly among the 28 circuits that are restricted to one circuit judge apiece.

The 3rd Circuit (Dodridge, Pleasants and Ritchie counties) had a population of 24,971 in the 1960 census; the 5th Circuit (Cabell) had 108,202, and the 13th Circuit (Kanawha) had 252,925.

Barred from increasing the number of circuit judges per circuit, the legislature over the years has tried to equalize work loads by another method, creation of courts of limited jurisdiction below the circuit court level.

These are the tribunals known as intermediate, criminal, common pleas, domestic relations and juvenile courts. There are now 14 of these limited jurisdiction courts in 10 counties. They handle hundreds of cases that otherwise would be in circuit courts.

But the remedy itself creates bottlenecks, since appeals from the limited jurisdiction courts must pass through circuit court before going to the State Supreme Court. Here in Kanawha County one circuit court with one judge is the first stop on the appeal route from four lesser courts with five judges.

IF THE pending judicial amendment is ratified, the constitution will no longer limit the number of circuit judges per circuit.

The legislature, under the amendment, would have power in circuits that need them. Alternatively, the legislature could upgrade judges of limited jurisdiction courts to circuit judgeships in the circuits where they live.

In a circuit with two or more circuit judges, the judge with the longest continuous service would be the circuit's chief judge.

A citizens' committee formed to promote passage of the amendment said the change would provide relief "where dockets are heavy and trials frequently delayed for long periods of time."

—:—

TO EXPLAIN the amendments to the public, the committee prepared a series of questions and answers which included the following:

Q—Would the amendment increase the number of judges?

A.—Not necessarily. The legislature can now establish new circuits and create additional courts of limited jurisdiction which would increase the number of judges. . . By making some of the judges of courts of limited jurisdiction circuit judges, the work load of the present circuit judges would be reduced and court business expedited without any additional judges.

Q.—Would the amendment change existing circuits?

A.—No. The existing boundaries of circuits are not changed by this amendment. The power of the legislature to rearrange circuits is covered by another section of the constitution.

A.—Would the amendment change the justice of the peace system?

A.—Absolutely not. It has no bearing on the justice of the peace system.

The amendment has the support of several major statewide organizations and the open opposition of none.

Organizations which have endorsed it include the state bar, the West Virginia Judicial Association, the West Virginia Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, the state Chamber of Commerce, the West Virginia Farm Bureau and the executive committee of the West Virginia Education Association.

2 Cyclists In Attack Case Denied Freedom

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two motorcyclists accused of taking part in the mass rape of an 18-year-old girl were in jail today, their pleas for freedom refused.

Scott Cope, 25, and William Douglas, 23, both of Rochester, Beaver County, contended their arrests last summer were illegal because no warrants had been issued.

But Judge John P. Hester of Allegheny County Criminal Court ruled Thursday that police had enough evidence to make the arrests without warrants. The judge denied the defendants' petition for release.

Cope and Douglas were among 13 Beaver County motorcyclists arrested in the case.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

What Is Back Of Slimming?

When I read a shining success story many questions come to my mind. In the case of the been fat all their lives, what helped them to finally come to grips with the weight problem? To recap the story: The mother weighed 189 pounds and the daughter, 22, weighed 196. Both are 5' 2" tall and wore size 20½.

Ida Jean Kain

What prompted them to take action? "We never could find clothes that were youthful looking in a size 20½," the mother explained.

What season did they start? Early fall. "We both knew we would be weighing 200 pounds by spring the way we were headed," she wrote.

HAD THEY tried to reduce before? "Yes, eight years ago we both tried taking reducing pills and we lost but after stopping the pills we gained our weight back twice as fast and were both fatter than ever. So this time, no pills."

Were they under a doctor's care? Yes. The mother had regular checkups because of an enlarged heart. Instead of asking the doctor for a presciption they simply went ahead and cut down on their food. The mother and the daughter took turns preparing the slimming meals, and this was fun and a challenge.

How many pounds did they lose before anyone commented? Between 15 and 20 pounds. The first year the mother reduced 47 pounds and the daughter 59 pounds. An average of 4 to 5 pounds a month is perfect.

"After we had reduced 25 to 30 pounds, it became harder to lose. But by then everyone was telling us how much better we looked. This encouraged us to continue. We tried even harder and started exercising. My daughter exercised daily and this helped to reshape her figure. I joined her part of the time and also walked to retone my muscles," the mother reported.

THE hardest part? "Learning to refuse homemade bread, pastries and the rich foods my family enjoy. One must decide that such foods are no favor to a reducer. I can truly say I don't even miss them now," she added.

"We are both so thankful we stayed with the project. It was five years ago that we set about reducing. My daughter now weighs 115 pounds which is perfect for 5' 2". I weigh 135 pounds, which is right for me. We both feel wonderful. It takes determination, but it is amazing how much staying power you can build up when you become interested in a project," the mother concluded.

There it is, when you are actively interested, slimming down becomes a stimulating challenge and a happy way of life.

The lawn and setting is perfect with two beautiful large blue spruce trees in the yard and flower gardens that are all over, even including a natural "Gold-fish" pond in the back yard and fruit trees on the extensive 700' deep lot. Inside the home we have six nice rooms, including an extra large living room with open fireplace. Full size dining room and modern kitchen. Closed in back porch that is a natural summer living spot. Large full basement with painted brick walls like new. Extra large gas hot air furnace and 85 gallon automatic hot water tank, incinerator and outside stairway to the back yard and garden. Three large bedrooms upstairs with a modern bath and all floors are carpeted except the dining room. Owner is retiring and wants to sell to move nearer the family. Detached large single car garage with an extra screened in cook-out room near the floral garden spot. Priced at just $13,900.00 and located at 1821 Lisbon Street on City bus line, city water and sewer.

Junior Editors Quiz on N.J. INDIANS

QUESTION: Were there once Indians in New Jersey—if so, of what tribe?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Yes, there were Indians in that part of the American wilderness which is now New Jersey. They belonged to the general culture area, or broad grouping of Indians living in similar ways. They were called the Eastern Forest Indians, and they represented a smaller grouping within the Northeastern Woodsmen, meaning Indians living between the Mississippi and the Atlantic and from the Ohio River north to Canada. Such Indians, although expert hunters, were farmers as well, raising corn, squash and beans. Some of the tribes built long houses out of bark where a number of families might live together. Many built round wigwams, such as we illustrate, which were covered on the outside with pieces of bark. This material also was used in building their beautifully-designed and constructed birchbark canoes. Handsome and practical clothing was made by tanning and softening animal skins, a dress of which is being modeled by our Indian maiden. The tribe living in New Jersey was the Delaware, speaking the Algonkian language. This tribe's present home is in Oklahoma.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for 28 years. Although he never has pointed a knife or a gun at me (or anyone else) I live in fear that one day he will kill me and the children. How? With the family car.

My husband is a thoughtful, kind, generous man. He is considered stable and well balanced by those who work for and with him. Yet he behaves like a madman when he is in the driver's seat of his automobile.

He becomes furious when another driver fails to give him the right of way. He retaliates by speeding, leaning on the horn and swearing. He has no patiences for older drivers who go more slowly than he thinks they should.

I have seen some serious accidents caused by a simple lack of courtesy. I think it miraculous that my husband has escaped—so far.

This is more than a safety problem. It is a marital problem. My husband's driving has ruined many an evening for me and caused many an argument between us. Will you please print this letter and a comment or two? I'm sure I'm not alone.—MRS. SHOOKUP.

Dear Mrs.: You bet you're not alone. If all the wives who have this problem were lined up, they would reach from the emergency ward of any Los Angeles hospital to the morgue in Manhattan.

Nearly half of my readers are men. To them I say: If you see yourself in that letter, mend your ways, Boys, before you become a suicide, or a murderer—or both.

Three On Honeymoon

Dear Ann: I'm a 13-year-old girl with a great big problem. My dad and mother were divorced three years ago. Neither one wanted me or my brother so we went to live with Grandma. Two years ago Grandma had a stroke so Mom had to take me. My brother went to live with Dad.

Last year Mom remarried. She told me I could go along on the honeymoon if I wanted to. I never had been to Las Vegas so I said I'd like to go. I had a rotten time because they kept leaving me in movies while they gambled.

Now Dad is getting married again and he says I can go along on their honeymoon. They are going to Yellowstonk Park and I've never been there either. I had such a lousy time on my mother's honeymoon that I'm afraid to take another chance. What is your advice?—GO OR NOT.

-:-

Dear Or Not: Pass up the trip. You'll enjoy Yellowstone Park more on your honeymoon.

Adopted Parent

Dear Ann: The family across the street worries me. Both parents work. They leave their children from morning till night with anybody who has two arms and two legs.

These people have had a procession of sitters that are plain trash. The one they have now should have a sitter with her. She goes around the neighborhood all day, visiting and eating, while the children run loose.

When they fall and hurt themselves the neighbors put the bandages on. The house always is locked, so the kids come over here to use the bathroom.

What can I do to help these young ones? Should I talk to the parents?—C.N.

Dear C.N.: If the parents were decent they wouldn't need talking to. Anything you say would be considered interference. Just continue to bind up the wounds and keep your bathroom available.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wiretap Dispute Flares Up Again In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — The controversy over alleged illegal wire tapping by the state police flared up again today, with a special report by the Auditor General's Department charging that high police officials improperly diverted funds to purchase wiretapping equipment.

The 58-page report detailing the department's investigation and audit of the State Police so-called Confidential Fund, also charges that the police used this equipment in their investigations.

Wiretapping, even by policemen, is forbidden by a state law.

Two of the major figures in the wiretapping issue — former Police Commissioner E. Wilson Purdy and Major Willard J. Stanton — also come under heavy fire in the report.

It charged that both men, who have denied knowing anything about the purchase of wiretapping equipment, had special listening devices installed in their own offices.

These devices, the report said, were hooked up to an intercom and permitted conversations to be monitored by secretaries in other offices.

Stanton's office also had a tape recorder with a special switch to turn it on in the desk drawer, a hidden microphone and a telephone induction device, the report said.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for 28 years. Although he never has pointed a knife or a gun at me (or anyone else) I live in fear that one day he will kill me and the children. How? With the family car.

My husband is a thoughtful, kind, generous man. He is considered stable and well balanced by those who work for and with him. Yet he behaves like a madman when he is in the driver's seat of his automobile.

He becomes furious when another driver fails to give him the right of way. He retaliates by speeding, leaning on the horn and swearing. He has no patiences for older drivers who go more slowly than he thinks they should.

I have seen some serious accidents caused by a simple lack of courtesy. I think it miraculous that my husband has escaped—so far.

This is more than a safety problem. It is a marital problem. My husband's driving has ruined many an evening for me and caused many an argument between us. Will you please print this letter and a comment or two? I'm sure I'm not alone.—MRS. SHOOKUP.

Dear Mrs.: You bet you're not alone. If all the wives who have this problem were lined up, they would reach from the emergency ward of any Los Angeles hospital to the morgue in Manhattan.

Nearly half of my readers are men. To them I say: If you see yourself in that letter, mend your ways, Boys, before you become a suicide, or a murderer—or both.

Three On Honeymoon

Dear Ann: I'm a 13-year-old girl with a great big problem. My dad and mother were divorced three years ago. Neither one wanted me or my brother so we went to live with Grandma. Two years ago Grandma had a stroke so Mom had to take me. My brother went to live with Dad.

Last year Mom remarried. She told me I could go along on the honeymoon if I wanted to. I never had been to Las Vegas so I said I'd like to go. I had a rotten time because they kept leaving me in movies while they gambled.

Now Dad is getting married again and he says I can go along on their honeymoon. They are going to Yellowstonk Park and I've never been there either. I had such a lousy time on my mother's honeymoon that I'm afraid to take another chance. What is your advice?—GO OR NOT.

Dear Or Not: Pass up the trip. You'll enjoy Yellowstone Park more on your honeymoon.

Adopted Parent

Dear Ann: The family across the street worries me. Both parents work. They leave their children from morning till night with anybody who has two arms and two legs.

These people have had a procession of sitters that are plain trash. The one they have now should have a sitter with her. She goes around the neighborhood all day, visiting and eating, while the children run loose.

When they fall and hurt themselves the neighbors put the bandages on. The house always is locked, so the kids come over here to use the bathroom.

What can I do to help these young ones? Should I talk to the parents?—C.N.

Dear C.N.: If the parents were decent they wouldn't need talking to. Anything you say would be considered interference. Just continue to bind up the wounds and keep your bathroom available.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wiretap Dispute Flares Up Again In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — The controversy over alleged illegal wire tapping by the state police flared up again today, with a special report by the Auditor General's Department charging that high police officials improperly diverted funds to purchase wiretapping equipment.

The 58-page report, detailing the department's investigation and audit of the State Police so-called Confidential Fund, also charges that the police used this equipment in their investigations.

Wiretapping, even by policemen, is forbidden by a state law.

Two of the major figures in the wiretapping issue — former Police Commissioner F. Wilson Purdy and Major Willard J. Stanton — also come under heavy fire in the report.

It charged that both men, who have denied knowing anything about the purchase of wiretapping equipment, had special listening devices installed in their own offices.

These devices, the report said, were hooked up to an intercom and permitted conversations to be monitored by secretaries in other offices.

Stanton's office also had a tape recorder with a special switch to turn it on in the desk drawer, a hidden microphone and a telephone induction device, the report said.
